Subject: [EXTERNAL] Wolf hunting and trapping proposed regulations for 2021-22 season
Date: Monday, July 26, 2021 3:50:25 PM

I am writing to comment on the proposed regulations for the 2021-22 wolf hunting season.

As a Wyoming native of a small, rural ranching/farming community and 42-year resident of northwestern Montana, I've been fortunate to professionally photograph and observe wolves in the wild for many years. They are beautiful animals and as much a part of the Montana landscape as any other wildlife. Their natural repopulation of NW Montana and Glacier National Park beginning in 1979 is a story with which I am intimately familiar. I have great admiration for the abilities of these early wolves to return and thrive naturally to the region where they once lived.

However, I do not think wolves deserve absolute protection. The wolf population in Montana needs controlled through closely monitored and reasonable hunting seasons. I have seen firsthand the damage to livestock that wolves inflict. Problem wolves should be removed the same as problem bears, coyotes, mountain lions and other predators.

The wolf population also should be reasonably controlled to levels that allow other wildlife populations — elk, deer, moose — to thrive as much as the landscape allows. The balance you professional wildlife managers strive to achieve benefits all wildlife as well as the hunters who pursue them.

My objection is to the trapping and snaring allowed in your wolf hunting regulations. I believe this method of killing is inhumane because of the suffering it causes wolves and all wildlife killed by these methods. Killing wolves this way is no different, in my opinion, than the awful poisons used to eradicate them earlier this century. Lingering death is not the humane way of wildlife population control, and the Montana Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks should not encourage this method of “hunting” by selling licenses to do so. Please!

So, allow hunters to shoot wolves with rifle or bow as necessary, but please reconsider your policy of allowing wolf trapping and snaring.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment. And thank you for the work you all do for Montana's wildlife!

Commissioners:

The Center for Biological Diversity (the “Center”) is a nonprofit organization that is dedicated to the protection of native species and their habitats through science, policy, and environmental law. The Center has more than 84,000 active members, including 529 members in Montana. The Center and its members have a long-standing interest in conserving native species in the American West and is concerned that wolves and other wildlife will be harmed by proposals to expand hunting and trapping in Montana.

The Montana Legislature has a history of governmental overreach when it comes to wolf management in the state. As long as Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks (“MFWP”) and the Commission do not fight this overreach and remain complicit, the Montana Legislature will continue to push its boundaries by wading into wildlife management that should be tasked with MFWP. While we are disappointed that Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks did not push back harder on the legislative proposals that further constrain the agency’s discretion to manage wolves and methods of take in Montana, we herein provide options for the agency and for the Commission to exercise discretion within the bounds of the new legislative laws. We ask MFWP and the Commission to consider these proposals.

INTRODUCTION

Senate Bill 314 directs the Commission to establish hunting and trapping seasons for wolves with the intent to reduce the wolf population to a sustainable level, but not less than the number of wolves necessary to support at least 15 breeding pairs. S.B. 314, 67th Leg., Reg. Sess. (MT 2021) (“SB 314”) (amending MCA § 87-1-901). Importantly, as MFWP notes in its recent primer with supporting information for any hunting or trapping season changes, it “does not interpret this statutory language to require the population be reduced to the minimum number of wolves necessary to support only 15 breeding pairs.”¹

MFWP also states that the current hunting and trapping structure is already reducing the population. MFWP notes that due to a high harvest level in 2020 of approximately 328 wolves, the population is predicted to decline from approximately 1,150 wolves to approximately 900-950 wolves.² Thus, as MFWP notes, “the current season structure may meet the intent of SB 314 relative to population reduction.”³

The new season changes implemented in Idaho are likely to further reduce Montana’s wolf population in areas along the state border where wolves inhabit both states. Idaho’s season changes include establishing a year-round trapping season for wolves on private property, allowing for unlimited purchase of wolf tags, and allowing any methods used for taking any wild canine in Idaho (foxes, coyotes) to also be available for taking wolves.⁴ Such methods include hunting with spotlights or night vision equipment, utilizing motorized vehicles to chase and run down wolves, and using hounds to pursue wolves.⁵ An expanded hunting season has also been approved in areas with a history of chronic livestock predation or where elk herds are below management objectives.⁶ These aggressive laws are sure to eliminate numerous wolves that inhabit both Idaho and Montana, in turn reducing Montana’s wolf population.

Due to season changes like Idaho’s and those being contemplated by Montana, the Center and allies recently filed an emergency petition to relist gray wolves in the northern Rocky Mountains as endangered or threatened under the Endangered Species Act.⁷ More than fifty conservation groups submitted a letter to Secretary of the Interior, Deb Haaland, and United States Fish and Wildlife Service supporting the Center's petition.⁸

If Montana implements aggressive changes to drastically reduce the current wolf population, Montana may also be risking the loss of an annual $24 million in vital Pittman-Robertson Act funds.⁹

For these reasons and for further reasons discussed below, we ask the Commission to exercise restraint in implementing SB 314 and not make any changes to the current hunting and trapping season structure for wolves. With high harvest rates it is likely that the population will continue to decline without any changes. And if harvest is less successful in 2021 than it was in 2020, the Commission can always make more changes next year.

I. WOLVES ARE IMPORTANT TO ECOSYSTEM HEALTH

Studies of gray wolves in Yellowstone National Park and elsewhere in the United States demonstrate that wolves significantly shape their ecosystems, promoting biodiversity and overall ecosystem health. Wolves act as a buffer to the effects of climate change by creating more carrion for scavengers and making it available year-round, to the advantage of bald and golden eagles, brown bears, ravens, magpies, and coyotes. (Wilmers and Getz 2005; Stahler et al. 2006; Constible et al. 2008). Prey animals also modify their behavior, distribution and movements in response to wolves. (Ripple and Beschta 2004; White and Garrott 2005). By example, gray wolves limit overgrazing of saplings by elk in sensitive riparian environments and thereby permit other species, such as bison, beavers, birds, fish and amphibians to thrive by stabilizing riparian areas. (Ripple and Beschta 2003; Chadwick 2010).

Wolves also have a controlling effect on other predator species, such as coyotes (Bergstrom 2017; Lennox et al. 2018), which indirectly benefits pronghorn and lynx (Berger and Gese 2007; Smith et al. 2003; Berger et al. 2008; Ripple et al. 2011). The trophic cascade of benefits provided by wolves is extraordinary, producing measurable positive effects for riparian vitality, aspen recruitment, and even down to the microbes in soil. (Wilmers et al. 2006; Chadwick 2010; Estes et al. 2011; Ripple et al. 2014; Darimont et al. 2015; Boyce 2018; Painter et al. 2018). In short, wolves make ecosystems biologically richer and more functional.

For these reasons alone, the Commission should exercise its discretion to decline to expand hunting or trapping seasons.

II. THE COMMISSION SHOULD NOT EXPAND HUNTING OR TRAPPING SEASONS

MFWP notes that season date expansions, especially for trapping, “consequently represent increased potential for non-target capture of federally listed grizzly bears, lynx, and other wild and domestic species.”¹⁰ Captures of grizzly bears and lynxes constitute a violation of the take provisions of the Endangered Species Act (“ESA”) and put Montana and the Commission at risk of liability. The Center and allies recently filed a notice of intent to sue Montana citing the risk that increased trapping may lead to the trapping of grizzly bears and lynxes.¹¹ As noted therein, in recent years MFWP has reported hundreds of captures, injuries, and deaths of non-target species in traps, including multiple instances of grizzly bears and lynxes captured in leghold traps intended for wolves and other species.¹² From 2012 to 2017, MFWP reported that 45% of incidentally captured animals “died as a result of the capture.”¹³ Sadly, 10% of all incidental captures reported occurred in traps intended for wolves during a time when only foothold traps were available for wolf trapping.¹⁴ If MFWP’s own data on incidental capture is to serve as a guide, extending the trapping season in combination with snare usage (even if limited to private lands) is sure to increase the number of non-target capture, injuries and death for the various species caught in wolf traps.

The likelihood of trapping a bear increases significantly if the wolf trapping season is extended to times before bears enter their dens and after they leave them. With rising winter temperatures, many bears are ending their hibernation period even earlier than in previous years, further increasing the chances of non-target capture in wolf traps. (Johnson et al. 2018).

Moreover, MFWP has noted that “non-target captures of grizzly bears represent real concerns for human safety.”¹⁵ People recreating in the area may come across a grizzly bear that is aggressive after being caught in a trap. Trappers may try to release a grizzly bear from a trap so as not to be liable under the ESA for an unintentional taking, which still violates Section 9 of the ESA. And even if trappers call MFWP to release the grizzly bear, agency personnel risk injury in trying to safely release the bear, especially if it breaks free while on scene. Even after release a bear may be aggressive; there have been documented instances in the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem where people have been attacked by bears after being released from a trap.¹⁶

Additionally, many people and their pets wanting to enjoy the outdoors after a long winter will venture outside as temperatures rise in March. With traps still set at this time, the risk of dogs being caught in foothold traps and snares is great, given that from 2012 to 2017 there were 148 reported instances (nearly 25 a year) where domestic dogs were caught in traps in Montana.¹⁷ Critics may argue that limiting snares to private land remedies this concern, but “40% of dog captures occurred on private land,” which is a likely unrepresentative percentage because private landowners do not have to report the capture of their own dogs.¹⁸ Just this past winter a dog was caught and stuck in a leghold trap for days, near Alberton, Montana.¹⁹ The trap was intended and set for wolves.²⁰

There are other practical reasons to not changing the current season structure as well. First, as MFWP notes, SB 314 does not speak to a specific timeline for reduction of the wolf population to be achieved.²¹ Thus, the Commission retains discretion to slowly reduce the population rather than change season structures to wipe out the wolf population at a rate that is too rapid to be sustainable. A slower reduction is preferable so that the ecosystem benefits of having wolves on the landscape discussed above will not rapidly diminish.

Reducing the population too quickly may also severely limit options to address conflicts, especially if the population is reduced too close to the 15 breeding pairs minimum.²² This would further constrain MFWP’s and the Commission’s flexibility to manage wolves. And science shows that killing wolves may also increase conflicts by increasing dispersal rates. A wolf pack will generally maintain its territory, even as individual wolves occasionally disperse to form new packs, if the breeding pair is not killed. (Mech and Boitani 2003). However, if one or both members of the breeding pair are killed, the remaining members of the pack may disperse. (Mech and Boitani 2003; Brainerd et al. 2008).

Moreover, wolf populations, like most predators, are self-regulating. Their populations are generally limited by prey availability, but when prey availability is unusually high wolf populations are limited by density-dependent factors, such as disease, and pack stability and territoriality. (Cariappa et al. 2011; Hatton et al. 2015; Lake et al. 2015).

Maintaining the current wolf season from December 15 to February 28 already gives sportsmen ample time to kill wolves. Any further extension is unnecessary and will result in the injury and death of non-target wildlife. We thus urge that the Commission not expand the wolf hunting or trapping seasons.

III. THE COMMISSION SHOULD NOT ALLOW THE TAKE OF THE BAG LIMIT WITH A SINGLE WOLF LICENSE AND SHOULD NOT INCREASE THE BAG LIMIT.

Permitting an individual to kill multiple wolves on a single license increases the chance that an opportunistic hunter or trapper may wipe out an entire pack. Gray wolves are territorial and social animals that hunt in groups and normally live in packs of 7 or fewer animals. (Mech 1970; Mech and Boitani 2003; Stahler et al. 2006; Vucetich et al. 2012). And typically, only the top-ranking female and male wolves in each pack will breed and reproduce. (Mech and Boitani 2003). Thus, if a hunter or trapper is able to kill up to five (or more if the bag limit is raised) wolves with a single license, he/she could kill all the adults in a pack, potentially leaving young pups to starve in their dens, resulting in the complete eradication of the pack. (Ausband et al. 2017; Brainerd et al. 2008). This could have severe negative impacts on local ecosystems. Moreover, studies have found that losing a breeding wolf can lead to pack dissolution and territory abandonment. (Ausband et al. 2017).

Allowing hunters and trappers to kill multiple wolves with only once license could result in Montana issuing enough licenses that effectively allows each wolf in the state to be killed. Just a few years ago, MFWP issued 20 licenses for every individual wolf in Montana.²³ This excessive number of issued licenses combined with high bag limits could lead to extremely high harvest rates as hunters opportunistically kill multiple wolves with a single license.

Additionally, allowing hunters and trappers to take multiple wolves with a single license could also have negative economic impacts. If the Commission were to allow the take of the bag limit with a single wolf license, MFWP could lose money from people who would otherwise purchase multiple licenses. Moreover, increased killing of wolves may deter opportunities for Montana residents and visitors to observe wolve in their natural habitat, which can serve as an economic advantage to the state. In Yellowstone National Park, for example, it was estimated that visitation attributed to wolves amounted to $35.5 million in annual tourism expenditures, which benefited local economies in Montana, Idaho, and Wyoming. (Duffield et al. 2008).

MFWP notes that only six people filled the current 5-wolf bag limit during the 2020 season.²⁴ Yet despite this, overall harvest was successful enough to decrease the population, demonstrating that allowing an individual to kill multiple wolves with a single tag and increasing the bag limit are unnecessary to decrease the population.

If MFWP does choose to expand hunting and trapping seasons or increase bag limits, we strongly urge the Commission not to increase quotas along the Yellowstone National Park border. As noted above, Yellowstone wolves bring a lot of tourist money to Montana, and these wolves deserve to be protected. It is unethical to shoot a wolf that is used to people the second it steps out of park boundaries and increasing the quotas here could threaten the existence of extremely popular wolf packs that reside near the state border.

IV. THE COMMISSION SHOULD NOT PERMIT HUNTING OF WOLVES OVER BAIT

MFWP and the Commission have long acknowledged that hunting wolves over bait runs counter to the principles of fair-chase ethics. Baiting can create dangerous situations by bringing predators into close contact with people, and baiting over traps can lead to the take of non-target wildlife and domestic animals. For these reasons, numerous former MFWP and FWS employees staunchly oppose wolf baiting, asserting that it is not “sound wildlife management policy” and “harm[s] the image of hunters and hunting in Montana.”²⁵ The fact that former MFWP commissioners, biologists, directors, wildlife managers and game wardens²⁶ do not agree with these proposals demonstrates that they are not the product of scientifically-based management practices, which should influence the current Commissioners’ decisions.

Baiting can also concentrate wolves into a single area, increasing the likelihood that a single hunter or trapper could wipe out an entire pack. Last February when Wisconsin allowed hunters to hunt wolves over bait at night, amongst other means, hunters killed 216 wolves in less than three days, 82% more wolves than the quota set at 119 wolves.²⁷

Different species of animals drawn into the bait site may also come into conflict with each other. And predators including but not limited to wolves can become aggressive when guarding a food source, exponentially increasing the danger to people that may be recreating nearby, unaware of the dangerous situation. Some bait may also be toxic to other wildlife and domestic animals, including spoiled bait and some bait made from waste candy containing the compound Theobromine.²⁸ And the concentration of animals over bait increases the potential for disease and parasite transmission, including rabies.²⁹

The Center recommends that the Commission heed the advice of its former colleagues and continue to prohibit wolf baiting statewide. Notably, MFWP does not include baiting in its recommendations.

V. THE COMMISSION SHOULD NOT PERMIT HUNTING OF WOLVES AT NIGHT

MFWP does not include permitting night hunting in its list of recommendations, and for good reason. Similar to the issues involved with baiting, hunting at night is inherently dangerous. Dogs, for example, can be easily mistaken for wolves at night. But dogs are not the only non-target victims of night hunting. In December 2013, a 28-year-old man was fatally shot by his friends while out hunting coyotes at night.³⁰ The group was using an illuminator and mistook Trenten Sutherland's eyes for those of a coyote.³¹ Unfortunately, incidents like this one are not entirely uncommon.³²

VI. HB 224 DOES NOT REQUIRE THE COMMISSION TO APPROVE NECK SNARING

As an initial point, the Center opposes all snaring, which is indiscriminate and often injures or kills non-target animals. Any level of snaring on public or private lands will inevitably capture non-target animals and may lead to violations of the Endangered Species Act if federally protected animals such as grizzly bears or lynxes are caught.³³ Snare use should be limited to the greatest extent possible.

H.B. 224, 67th Leg., Reg. Sess. (MT 2021) ("HB 224") (amending MCA § 87-1-0-901) states that snaring "shall" be part of trapping, taking away the Commission's discretion to prohibit all snaring. However, H.B. 224 does not state the type, extent, or location that snaring must be allowed. Because H.B. 224 does not require that strangulation snares be allowed, we strongly encourage the Commission to approve use of foothold snares only and to continue prohibiting neck snares. This would still comply with the language of H.B. 224 and will limit the suffering and unnecessary death of numerous non-target animals, including federally protected wildlife and domestic dogs, that would otherwise be caught and killed in strangulation snares.

In addition to approving foothold snares only, we suggest that snares be limited to private land and be permitted only outside of any areas that may be inhabited by grizzly bears or lynxes. (Proulx et al. 2015). Studies have found that snares capture non-target species at high rates, and this trend is especially true of neck snares targeting canids, such as wolves. Surveys on the selectivity rates of coyote neck snares have reported rates of 52 percent (Guthery and Beason (1978)) and 77 percent (Phillips (1996)), indicating that between 23 and 48 percent of the animals snare in coyote traps are non-target species. These non-target species include grizzly bears and lynxes. And even with leghold snares, serious injury and death is possible to target and non-target species. See Iossa et al. (2007); see also Rochlitz (2010) (“The mortality and morbidity of animals caught in snares is higher than with most other restraining traps.”). Indeed, the Montana Trappers Association has admitted that “[l]eg snares are far less practical [than leghold traps] and contribute to more significant and permanent damage.”³⁴

Finally, because snaring via foot snares or neck snares are likely to seriously injure animals and sometimes will not quickly kill animals, we ask that the Commission enact a 24-hour trap check requirement for all snares. All snares must be removed by the end of any snaring season, and all snares should include a tag identifying the trapper so that MFWP can enforce this requirement.

CONCLUSION

Because the wolf population in Montana is already decreasing under the current hunting and trapping structure, we encourage the Commission to use restraint and adhere to fair chase ethics in enacting the recommendations of SB 314 and HB 224 to ensure the wolf population remains stable and to protect incidental harm to non-target animals, including federally protected grizzly bears and lynxes, as well as domestic animals.

Re: Extreme Wolf Killing under Montana's Wolf Hunting and Trapping Legislation Would Make the State Ineligible for Pittman-Robertson Act Funds

Dear Director Warsech and Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission:

On behalf of the Center for Biological Diversity, we ask that you use your rulemaking authority to limit the adverse consequences of Senate Bill 314, which could result in the extermination of 80 percent of the state's wolf population. Senate Bill 314 authorizes hunters and trappers to kill an unlimited number of wolves through baiting, trapping, and night hunts that utilize night vision scopes and spotlighting on private land. Allowing the Bill's proposed methods and reduction in the wolf population to go forward could result in state ineligibility for funds under the Pittman-Robertson Act. The Center is a nonprofit organization dedicated to the protection and restoration of biodiversity.

Senate Bill 314 could potentially authorize the death of more than 680 of the state's wolves, out of a population of approximately 833.¹ Moreover, House Bill 224 allows trapping license holders to trap or snare multiple wolves while House Bill 225 expands the trapping season for wolves by four weeks.² Costs that wolf hunters and trappers incur during this prolonged season may be reimbursed pursuant to Senate Bill 267.³

This flurry of legislation reveals a comprehensive and harmful approach that could easily reduce the wolf population to levels that could trigger a return to protection under the Endangered Species Act, 16 U.S.C. § 1531 et seq. In addition, permitting single license holders to kill an unlimited number of wolves is contrary to the Fish Wildlife and Park’s conservation mission and will likely result in excessive mortality, as it did in Wisconsin. Such drastic measures to control wolf populations would result in history repeating itself, destroying decades of progress recovering wolves, and reducing their populations to a level that robs the state of the species’ beauty and ecological importance.

The rationale cited behind this legislation often centers on protecting vulnerable cattle, sheep, elk and moose populations, but the science does not support that contention. For example, since wolves were reintroduced to Montana in 1995, state elk populations have dramatically increased and surpassed objectives.⁴ Furthermore, in 2019 wolves only accounted for .003% of all livestock deaths in Montana.⁵ As for moose, Montana FWP’s own ten-year study indicated that decreasing numbers were due to parasites, like arterial worms, not wolves.⁶

Through the Pittman-Robertson Act and Sport Fish Restoration Act, Congress has authorized the Secretary of the Interior to distribute funds to states to support critical conservation and outdoor recreation projects.⁷ Federal regulations implementing the Acts provide that a state “becomes ineligible to receive the benefits” of the Acts if it “passes legislation contrary to the Acts.”⁸ Because Senate Bill 314 aims to reduce Montana’s wolf population to the brink of extinction, it is contrary to the Pittman-Robertson Act, which prioritizes wildlife conservation.⁹ Indeed, the purpose of the Act is to “assure sound conservation policies” “for the benefit of a diverse array of wildlife” “in recognition of the primary role of the States to conserve all wildlife.”¹⁰

Last year, the State of Montana received more than 24.4 million dollars in funding authorized by the Acts, and it received more than 99.2 million dollars from 2015 to 2019.¹¹ The 4.1 million in total funds generated from wolf hunting licenses between 2009 and 2019 pales in comparison.¹²

As Commissioners, you have the power and duty to ensure that state wildlife, including wolves, are wisely managed. Because Senate Bill 314 risks exterminating Montana's wolf population, we ask that you utilize your rulemaking authority to implement the Bill in a way that avoids this detrimental outcome and the loss of vital Pittman-Robertson Act funds.

RE: Sixty-Day Notice of Intent to Sue to Remedy Violations of the Endangered Species Act in Montana’s Authorization and Promotion of Snaring and Increased Trapping in Canada Lynx and Grizzly Bear Habitat

Dear Governor Gianforte, Director Warsech, and Fish and Wildlife Commission members,

I write on behalf of the Center for Biological Diversity, Friends of the Clearwater, Humane Society of the United States, International Wildlife Coexistence Network, Sierra Club, Western Watersheds Project, Wilderness Watch, and Wolves of the Rockies—and pursuant to the citizen suit provision of the Endangered Species Act (“ESA”), 16 U.S.C. § 1540(g)—to provide official notice of our intent to file suit against you, in your official capacity, for causing the likely trapping of threatened Canada lynx (“lynx”) and grizzly bears in violation of section 9 of the ESA. 16 U.S.C. § 1538(a)(1)(B). Governor Gianforte recently signed into law two wolf-trapping bills requiring Montana’s Fish and Wildlife Commission (the “Commission”) to allow the use of snares by wolf trappers and establish trapping seasons with the intent to reduce the wolf population. See H.B. 224, 67th Leg., Reg. Sess. (MT 2021) (“HB 224”) (amending MCA § 87-1-901); S.B. 314, 67th Leg., Reg. Sess. (MT 2021) (“SB 314”) (same). These bills impose a new trapping paradigm in western Montana’s lynx and grizzly bear habitat and are likely to cause incidental trapping and injury or death of these threatened species.¹

Lynx, grizzly bears, and gray wolves all inhabit similar habitat types and geographic range across western Montana, and wolf trapping therefore frequently occurs in areas where lynx and grizzlies are also present. Moreover, because snares and traps are imprecise tools, they pose a substantial risk to non-target species, including lynx and grizzlies. Snares are particularly likely to injure or kill non-target animals at a high rate. Accordingly, legislation that allows for the use of snares by the holder of a wolf-trapping license—and requires the Commission to manage hunting and trapping seasons with the intent to reduce the wolf population—is likely to result in the incidental trapping, including injury or death, of lynx and grizzly bears and thus violates section 9 of the ESA. 16 U.S.C. § 1538(a)(1)(B). To avoid unlawful take of these species, the State should, at a minimum, prohibit all trapping and snaring in occupied lynx and grizzly bear habitat. Unless the State takes action in the next 60 days to remedy this violation, the undersigned organizations will seek judicial enforcement of the ESA’s take prohibition.

I. Lynx and Grizzly Bear Habitat Is Largely Coextensive with Wolf Habitat in Montana

The threat to listed species posed by Montana’s new-wolf killing legislation is considerable because lynx and grizzly bear habitat in Montana overlaps significantly with that of gray wolves. Starting in northwest Montana—from the Northern Continental Divide Ecosystem and the Cabinet-Yaak Ecosystem—lynx, grizzly, and wolf habitats extend southward into west-central Montana. At the same time, habitat for grizzlies and wolves, and to a lesser extent, lynx, extends northward into the state from Yellowstone National Park and the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem in southwest Montana. Moreover, within this range, lynx, grizzly bears, and wolves frequently occupy the same areas. Due to this substantial overlap between all three species, wolf-trapping in Montana is frequently carried out in lynx and grizzly bear habitat.

A. Threatened Lynx in Montana

Lynx depend on abundant snow, a variety of high elevation habitats for hunting and denning, and primarily snowshoe hares for prey. Ripple, et al. (2011). Both lynx and snowshoe hares currently range into “southeastern Canada and including parts of Maine, Minnesota, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, and Washington.” Murray, et al. at 1463 (2008) (emphasis added); see also U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Species Status Assessment for the Canada Lynx: Contiguous United States Distinct Population Segment, 108-113 (2017) (“2017 Status Assessment for Lynx”) (summarizing current conditions for lynx in the same states and Colorado).

¹ This letter addresses only the non-discretionary provisions of the wolf-killing bills. The signatories to this letter will also carefully monitor the Commission’s implementation of the bills’ problematic discretionary elements, including allowing the use of bait while hunting and trapping wolves.

According to NatureServe,² lynx numbers and range in the contiguous United States are substantially reduced from historical levels as result of “overexploitation by both regulated and unregulated harvest that occurred in the 1970s and 1980s.”³ In 2000, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (“FWS”) listed lynx as “threatened” under the ESA in the contiguous United States. See generally 65 Fed. Reg. 16052 (2000). FWS has also designated critical habitat for lynx across a number of the lower-48 States, including portions of northwest and southwest Montana. See Figure 1 (below). The lynx population is considered “vulnerable” in Montana.⁴

As FWS has noted, research from Montana “has documented the continued presence and broad distribution of resident lynx in much of the northwestern portion of the state.” 2017 Status Assessment for Lynx, at 50.

Lynx are also found in southwest Montana near Yellowstone National Park, though with less frequency. Id. at 157-58. While lynx are native to the Yellowstone region, lynx have also dispersed into the state following their release in Colorado. To promote lynx recovery, the Colorado Division of Wildlife (now Colorado Parks and Wildlife) released 218 lynx from Canada in Colorado between 1999 and 2006. Some of these lynx produced offspring. Lynx (both Colorado- and Canadian-born) have dispersed into Montana and other states from

In addition to depending on snow, high elevations, and snowshoe hare, lynx rely on habitat that can provide continuous forest cover for hunting and denning. Murray, et al. at (2008). Moreover, lynx survival within their chosen habitat is reliant on local trapping conditions. According to FWS, “lynx are more likely to survive, breed, and replace themselves in the breeding population if they occupy home ranges where trapping is prohibited or trapping pressure is low.” 2017 Status Assessment for Lynx, at 36.

B. Threatened Grizzly Bears in Montana

Grizzly bears once numbered roughly 50,000 individuals in the western United States. FWS, Species Status Assessment for the Grizzly Bear in the Lower-48 States: A Biological Report, 4 (2021) (“Status Assessment for the Grizzly Bear”). With European-American settlement, however, grizzlies were “shot, poisoned, and trapped wherever they were found,” eliminating them from everywhere but mountain redoubts far removed from human intolerance. Crow Indian Tribe v. United States, 343 F. Supp. 3d 999, 1004 (D. Mont. 2018) (quotation omitted).

By the time FWS listed grizzly bears in the contiguous United States as “threatened” under the ESA in 1975, grizzlies had been “reduced to less than two percent of their former range in the lower-48 States ... and the estimated population in the lower-48 states was 700 to 800 individuals.” Status Assessment for the Grizzly Bear, at 4.

Currently, grizzly bears in the contiguous States remain confined to a few isolated populations in Montana, Wyoming, and Idaho along with potential occupancy of the North Cascades in Washington. Based on these remnant populations, FWS has designated six areas as grizzly bear recovery zones. Id. at 3-4; see Figure 3 (below). Montana is home—in full or in part—to four of these recovery zones: (1) the Northern Continental Divide Ecosystem; (2) the Cabinet-Yaak Ecosystem; (3) the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem; and (4) the Bitterroot Ecosystem. See Figure 3.

Consistent with the designated recovery zones, Montana’s grizzly populations are concentrated in northwest Montana’s Cabinet-Yaak and Northern Continental Divide Ecosystems and in southwest Montana’s Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem. Moreover, according to the Interagency Grizzly Bear Committee, while “[g]rizzly bears in the Bitterroot Ecosystem [edging into west-central Montana] remain relatively uncommon” there have been “increasing reports [of grizzlies in the Bitterroots] in recent years.”⁶

⁶ <http://igbconline.org/bitterroot-ecosystem/> (last visited June 22, 2021).

Within their recovery zones, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service describes grizzly bears as habitat “generalists” that “occupy[] habitats from deserts to alpine mountains and everything in between.” Status Assessment for the Grizzly Bear, at 47. Grizzly bears’ varied diets aid their adaptability, and they “will consume almost any food available including vegetation, living or dead mammals or fish, insects, worms, plants, human-related foods, and garbage.” Id. at 48. In Montana, grizzly bears rely on ungulate carcasses, among other foods, for protein. Id. at 183 (observing that grizzly diets in the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem rely on bison, elk, mule deer, moose, pronghorn, and bighorn sheep), 191 (noting that grizzlies in the Northern Continental Divide Ecosystem eat deer and elk). Grizzly bears—as with lynx and wolves—prefer habitats that offer forest cover. Id. at 47.

C. Overlap with Wolves

As with lynx and grizzly bears, Montana’s gray wolf habitat ranges across the western portion of the state. See Figure 4.

As this map makes clear, wolves’ geographical habitat range substantially overlaps lynx and grizzly bear habitat in Montana.

Within their overlapping habitat ranges, wolves, lynx, and grizzly bears frequently choose the same habitat types and occupy the same areas.

Wolves “exhibit[] no particular habitat preference except for the presence of native ungulates within [their] territory on a year-round basis.”⁸ However, wolves are most likely to select habitat with a high ungulate density—the primary prey and food source for wolves—as well as forest cover (similar to lynx and grizzlies). Oakleaf, et al. (2006). The generalized nature of wolf habitat preferences—which in turn resembles the adaptability of grizzly bears when selecting habitat—means that wolves, lynx, and grizzly bears often inhabit the same areas throughout Montana.

Wolf and grizzly bear habitat often overlaps due to the two species' reliance on ungulates as a consistent food source. See FWS Status Assessment for the Grizzly Bear, at 183. And while wolves and grizzly bears may thus compete for carrion and prey, researchers have found no evidence that the presence of wolves in an area negatively influences grizzly bear populations. Id. Rather, researchers in the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem have observed that any wolf-caused "reduction of winter-killed ungulates may be buffered by increased availability of meat to adult grizzly bears during the active season as a result of grizzly bears usually prevailing in usurping wolf-killed ungulate carcasses." Id. Thus, wolves and grizzly bears can—and frequently do—occupy the same habitat.

Wolf habitat also overlaps with that of lynx, and the presence of wolves in an area can play an important role in food availability for lynx. Lynx rely on snowshoe hare as their primary food source but often must compete with coyotes for their prey. Ripple, et al. (2011). However, wolves suppress coyote populations and can thereby increase hare populations. Id. Thus, where wolves and lynx intersect, wolves can ensure a greater abundance of hare, which in turn benefits nearby lynx. Id. FWS and other federal agencies have speculated that, with climate change reducing snow depth, the overlap between lynx and wolf habitat will only increase. See FWS et al., Canada Lynx Conservation Assessment and Strategy, 71 (2013) ("Interagency Lynx Conservation Assessment").

In short, lynx, grizzly bears, and wolves occupy similar geographic ranges and frequently occupy the same types of habitat within those ranges. This substantial overlap in habitat for these three species means that wolf-trapping in the state frequently occurs in areas also occupied by lynx and grizzlies.

II. Snares and Traps Capture, Injure, and Kill Non-Target Lynx and Grizzly Bears

Snares and traps are known to frequently capture, injure, or kill non-target species such as lynx and grizzly bears. Snares are particularly likely to kill or cause severe injuries to captured non-target animals. In recent years—even without allowing wolf-trappers to use snares—Montana's Department of Fish, Wildlife and Parks ("FWP") has reported hundreds of captures, injuries, and deaths of non-target species in traps, including multiple instances of lynx and grizzly bears captured in leghold traps intended for wolves and other species.

A. Snares and Traps Are Inherently Non-Selective and Indiscriminate

According to trapping experts and researchers, snares⁹ and leghold traps¹⁰ are inherently non-selective and indiscriminate, meaning they can capture or kill a broad range of animals beyond the species targeted by the trapper. Iossa, et al. (2007) ("It has long been recognized that non-target captures can be very high in comparison to target captures.”); see also Proulx, et al. (2015).

¹⁰ "Leg-hold traps have two jaws that open to 180° when set, and clamp together to hold an animal's foot or leg when triggered. The trap is attached to the ground or an anchor by a chain or cable." Iossa, et al. (2007).

Proulx, et al. (2015) note that snares capture non-target species at high rates, and this trend is especially true of neck snares targeting canids, such as wolves. Surveys on the selectivity rates of coyote neck snares have reported rates of 52 percent (Guthery and Beasom (1978)) and 77 percent (Phillips (1996))—indicating that between 23 and 48 percent of the animals snared in coyote traps are non-target species.

Lynx and grizzly bears are among those non-target species incidentally captured or killed in snares targeting wolves and other canids.

A 2013 lynx assessment by FWS and other federal agencies concluded that “lynx are very vulnerable to trapping and snaring and can be easily overexploited.” Interagency Lynx Conservation Assessment, at 79. The agencies found that vulnerability extends to “[i]ncidental trapping or snaring of lynx” which “can occur in areas where regulated trapping for other species, such as wolverine, coyote, fox, fisher, marten, bobcat and wolf, overlaps with lynx habitats.” Id. at 71 (emphases added).

According to Proulx, et al. (2015), between 1990 and 2014, the Canadian Wildlife Health Cooperative reported at least 157 incidents of non-target snare captures, including eight instances of lynx killed in snares. Id. However, as that number reflects only specimens voluntarily submitted by trappers, it “probably represents [only] a small proportion of the snared animals that die and go unreported by people.” Id. Proulx, et al. (2015) also identified one instance in which a trapper in Alberta, Canada set 10-15 killing neck snares to capture wolves, and instead captured three non-target animals within a week, including one black bear and one grizzly bear.

B. Snares and Traps Frequently Injure or Kill Non-Target Animals

Snares and traps injure or kill non-target animals at high rates. Neck snares are often intended to kill the target animal, and therefore also kill the non-target animals that are frequently ensnared. See Proulx, et al., (2015).¹¹ Leghold snares and traps, which are not intended to kill, can nevertheless cause injuries that result in death or permanently impair the animal after release. However, because these injuries are not always immediately apparent, animals may be released into the wild with injuries that are incorrectly overlooked as non-existent or insignificant. See Proulx, et al. (2020); Andreassen, et al. (2017); Cattet, et al. (2008); Iossa, et al. (2007); Interagency Lynx Conservation Assessment, at 79.

According to Iossa, et al. (2007), leghold snares in particular may cause high mortality in non-target species. Consistent with this finding, FWS and other federal agencies have found that “[i]njuries and mortality rates are greatest to lynx incidentally caught in snares and Conibear [killer] traps.” Interagency Lynx Conservation Assessment, at 79; see also Rochlitz (2010)

(“The mortality and morbidity of animals caught in snares is higher than with most other restraining traps.”).¹²

Leghold snares and traps, by restraining animals by their limbs, can cause compression or constriction injuries that can damage tissue, restrict vascular flow, and can have harmful effects beyond the extremity that is actually constricted. Research indicates that as little as two to four hours of serious restriction can result in long-term loss of neuromuscular function or persistent pain. See Jacobson, et al. (1994).

In addition to constriction injuries, snares and traps also cause bone fractures, dislocations, tooth and gum damage from biting the snares and traps, hypothermia or hyperthermia, and dehydration. See Nocturnal Wildlife Research Party Ltd., Review: Welfare Outcomes of Leg-hold Trap Use in Victoria (2008) (“NWR Report”). Trapped animals and their offspring are also vulnerable to being killed by other animals. See Status Assessment for the Grizzly Bear, 150-51 (reporting that “[i]n 2013, a snared subadult female grizzly bear was killed by a large, probably male bear” and also noting “the killing of a [grizzly] cub by another bear while its mother was captured”). Moreover, the physiological effects of stress, trauma, and shock from being captured can cause death after release. See NWR Report; Proulx, et al. (2020); Cattet, et al. (2008).

Proulx, et al. (2020) write that “significant capture-related effects in ursids may go undetected at the time of capture, thus providing a false sense of the welfare of released animals.” Cattet, et al. (2008) found that grizzly bears captured in leghold snares more frequently exhibited biochemical indicators of muscle injury as compared with grizzlies captured by helicopter or barrel trap. The same researchers observed that the rate of movements made by bears decreased below normal levels immediately after capture and took between three to six weeks to normalize after release. This illustrates that even those animals released from snares with no apparent injuries may nevertheless incur significant injuries. Cattet, et al. (2008) reported that one grizzly died of capture myopathy—a physical reaction to the stress and trauma associated with snaring—approximately 10 days after being captured by a leghold snare. Similarly, FWS reported the death of a subadult male grizzly from exertional myopathy after being trapped in 2019. See Status Assessment for the Grizzly Bear, at 151.

As with grizzly bears, injuries to trapped lynx may frequently go undetected. See Interagency Lynx Conservation Assessment, 79 (“Some trap-related injuries (e.g., dislocations, fractures, mild freezing) are difficult to detect in lynx in the field.”). FWS and other federal agencies admit that “a substantial portion of lynx caught in foothold traps may experience injuries and foot freezing.” Id.

C. Montana Trappers Already Capture Non-Target Species—Including Lynx and Grizzly Bears

Even before the wave of new trapping and snaring activity authorized by the state’s new wolf-killing legislation, Montana trappers already capture, injure, and kill non-target animals—including lynx and grizzly bears—on a regular basis.

According to Montana FWP, in the six-year period between 2012 and 2017, trappers reported 349 captures of non-target species across the state. FWP, Incidental Captures of Wildlife and Domestic Dogs in Montana, 2012-2017, 1 (2018). Forty-five percent of these incidentally-captured individuals “died as a result of the capture,” and at least 33 percent of those released alive sustained visible injuries such as cuts and swelling of the feet and neck. Id.

FWP reported three lynx and three grizzly bears among those non-target captures—including one lynx and one grizzly caught in leghold traps intended for wolves. Id. at 1-2. At least one trapped grizzly bear sustained foot damage prior to release. See Non-Target Wildlife Captured in Traps (non-Wolf Traps) Reported to FWP, 2013-14. And while FWP classified the other captured grizzly bears and lynx as “uninjured/released” or simply “released,” FWP records do not indicate whether these animals were monitored following release.¹³ Without those additional data, it is impossible to determine the extent to which these animals avoided harm from capture. See Proulx, et al. (2020); Andreasen, et al. (2017); Cattet, et al. (2008); Iossa, et al. (2007). However, even the readily available data collected by FWP demonstrates that trapping and snaring of wolves in Montana will inevitably result in capture and injury to non-target species including lynx and grizzly bears.

III. The ESA Prohibits Incidental Take of Lynx and Grizzly Bears

Such capture and injury of lynx and grizzly bears violates the ESA. Section 9 of the ESA prohibits the unauthorized “take” of an endangered species. 16 U.S.C. 1538(a)(1)(B). The ESA defines “take” to mean “harass, harm, pursue, hunt, shoot, wound, kill, trap, capture, or collect, or to attempt to engage in such conduct.” Id. § 1532(19). “Take” includes direct as well as indirect harm and need not be purposeful. See Babbit v. Sweet Home Chapter of Communities for a Great Oregon, 515 U.S. 687, 704 (1995). A take may even be the result of an accident. See National Wildlife Federation v. Burlington Northern Railroad, 23 F.3d 1508, 1512 (9th Cir. 1994).

The ESA’s take prohibition applies equally to threatened species, unless otherwise indicated by a species-specific rule promulgated by the FWS pursuant to ESA § 4(d). See 50 C.F.R. 17.31(a). The species-specific rules for Canada lynx allow for no exception to the prohibition of take in the trapping or snaring context. The species-specific rules for grizzly bears permit take only for self-defense, defense of others, scientific research, and other limited circumstances. 50 C.F.R. 17.40(b). Accordingly, the ESA protects lynx and grizzly bears from take or attempted take by recreational trapping or snaring.

These ESA protections apply equally against trapping or snaring authorized by a state official or agency. It is unlawful for any person to “cause [an ESA violation] to be committed.” 16 U.S.C. § 1538(g). The term “person” includes “any officer, employee, agent, department, or instrumentality ... of any State, municipality, or political subdivision of a State ... [or] any State, municipality, or political subdivision of a State” Id. § 1532(13).

Thus, the ESA “not only prohibits the acts of those parties that directly exact the taking, but also bans those acts of a third party that bring about the acts exacting a taking.... [A] governmental third party pursuant to whose authority an actor directly exacts a taking ... may be deemed to have violated the provisions of the ESA.” Strahan v. Coxe, 127 F.3d 155, 163 (1st Cir. 1997) (emphasis added) (holding that Massachusetts exacted a taking by issuing licenses and permits authorizing gillnet and lobster pot fishing—activities known to incidentally injure Northern right whales). As in Strahan, state hunting and trapping schemes violate the ESA’s section 9 prohibition on take when “a risk of taking exists [even] if trappers comply with all applicable laws and regulations in place.” Animal Prot. Inst., Ctr. for Biological Diversity v. Holsten, 541 F. Supp. 2d 1073, 1079 (D. Minn. 2008) (holding Commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources liable for incidental killing of lynx); see also Strahan v. Sec’y, Massachusetts Exec. Off. of Energy & Env’tl. Affs., 458 F. Supp. 3d 76, 95 (D. Mass. 2020)(holding Massachusetts Executive Office of Energy and Environmental Affairs and Director of Massachusetts Division of Marine Fisheries liable for incidental trapping of Northern right whales); Ctr. for Biological Diversity v. C.L. Otter, No. 1:14-CV-258-BLW, 2016 WL 233193 (D. Idaho Jan. 8, 2016) (holding Idaho Governor and others liable for incidental trapping of lynx), on reconsideration, sub nom. Ctr. for Biological Diversity v. Otter, No. 1:14-CV-258-BLW, 2018 WL 539329 (D. Idaho Jan. 24, 2018); Red Wolf Coal. v. N. Carolina Wildlife Res. Comm’n, No. 2:13-CV-60-BO, 2014 WL 1922234 (E.D.N.C. May 13, 2014) (holding North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission liable for incidental take of red wolves).

The ESA has a broad citizen-suit provision, which provides that “any person may commence a civil suit on his own behalf to enjoin any person, including ... any ... governmental instrumentality or agency ... who is alleged to be in violation of any provision of [the ESA].” 16 U.S.C. § 1540(g). By filing such a civil action, a plaintiff may seek to enjoin both present activities that constitute an ongoing take and future activities that are likely to result in take. See Burlington Northern Railroad, 23 F.3d at 1511.

IV. Implementation of Montana’s Wolf-Killing Bills Violates the ESA’s Prohibition on Incidental Take of Threatened Species

Montana’s wolf-trapping bills are likely to cause incidental take—including harm, wounding, or killing—of threatened lynx and grizzly bears in violation of ESA section 9. Montana’s recently enacted HB 224 requires the Commission to “allow for the use of snares by the holder of a [wolf] trapping license.” MCA § 87-1-901(1). Recently enacted SB 314 requires the Commission to establish hunting and trapping seasons “with the intent to reduce the wolf population” in Montana. Id. These measures portend a new wave of snaring activity in Montana accompanied by an escalated level of trapping activity to achieve the state’s new wolf-population-reduction mandate.

Because lynx and grizzly bear habitat significantly overlaps with that of Montana's gray wolf population, changes to state-sanctioned wolf-trapping activities will alter trapping conditions in lynx and grizzly territory. Moreover, because snares pose particular dangers to non-target species, they threaten injury or death to lynx and grizzlies, even when targeting wolves. These adverse impacts are likely to occur even if trappers follow all applicable state laws and regulations. Thus, by authorizing the use of snares by wolf trappers, HB 224 increases the likelihood that Montana trappers—who already regularly capture non-target lynx and grizzly bears—will incidentally injure or kill lynx and grizzlies. SB 314 further heightens this danger by requiring the Commission to manage wolf trapping seasons to reduce the population, which portends increased trapping—including a surge in the incidental trapping of non-target species.

In short, implementation of HB 224 and SB 314 is likely to cause the incidental take—including the injuring or killing—of lynx and grizzly bears. Thus, activities authorized by the State of Montana to implement these bills violate section 9 of the ESA. 16 U.S.C. § 1538(a)(1)(B).

V. Conclusion

The Center for Biological Diversity, Friends of the Clearwater, Humane Society of the United States, International Wildlife Coexistence Network, Sierra Club, Western Watersheds Project, Wilderness Watch, and Wolves of the Rockies work to protect and conserve Canada lynx and grizzly bears in Montana. Activities to implement Montana's new wolf-killing legislation threaten to impede conservation of these species. Accordingly, the parties to this notice letter request that Montana take immediate action to prevent the future take of ESA-listed species as a consequence of the state's new wolf-killing legislation, which violates federal law. At a minimum, this would require the State to prohibit all trapping and snaring in occupied lynx and grizzly bear habitat.

If Montana does not remedy this violation within 60 days of the receipt of this letter, the parties to this notice letter intend to institute legal action in federal court to enforce the ESA.

Sincerely,

Ben Scrimshaw

Re: Public Comment – Draft Wolf Hunting and Trapping Proposal for 2021-2022

Note: The online link for public comment does not work and was put on the FWP website the day comments were due. This commission continues to attempt to limit and ignore public comment it disagrees with. It is shameful.

Conservation Congress appreciates the opportunity to provide public comment on the proposed wolf regulations. Please incorporate them into the administrative record and consider them prior to making a final decision.

As a former MDFWP employee in the Wildlife Division it is difficult to understand how these politically charged, biologically unsound regulations came to be, much less approved. They are appalling. They definitely show the ignorance of commission members regarding wildlife ecology as well as predator/prey relationships. They are also based on false information and outright lies by certain commission members.

MDFWP own survey data shows every hunting district is above elk objectives. Certain commissioners claim wolves are eating too many elk which is patently false.

The next big lie is wolves are killing too many livestock. This is also a bald-faced lie. There are more cattle in the state of MT than there are people, and that number doesn't include sheep/lambs. More livestock die from disease and lightning strikes than they do from wolves. Even if a rancher does lose an animal to a wolf, they are compensated for the loss. Losing animals should be a cost of doing business, especially when it

1604 1st Ave S
Great Falls, MT 59401
406-707-7007

www.conservationcongress-ca.org occurs on public lands where livestock are unattended. No reasonable intelligent person would believe livestock are safe from any predator on public lands. The bottom line is wolves kill about ¼ of 1% of livestock – it is nothing in the big picture.

Snaring is considered barbaric by legitimate wildlife biologists for the suffering and cruelty it inflicts on an animal. Furthermore, snaring results in killing non-target species and in this case will likely include lynx and grizzlies, both threatened species under the ESA. No snaring should be permitted anywhere in MT.

Night hunting and using bait to lure animals is unethical and a violation of fair chase. Neither should be permitted under a science-based management plan.

Increasing bag limits, eliminating quotas, and extending trapping seasons are all unwarranted. All of these proposed regulations are based on ignorant hatred rather than biology.

This commission is looking for a problem where none exists. It is galling that this commission does not consider the role wolves could play in controlling chronic wasting disease. It is also galling this commission is so ignorant it can't see the multi-millions of dollars wolves bring to the state through tourism.

The Gianforte Commission has failed to use any science-based approach in wolf management and makes a mockery of the North American Model of Wildlife Management and the Public Trust Doctrine. This commission is an embarrassment to MT and to all wildlife agencies.

There has already been a Sixty-Day Notice of Intent to Sue over the draft regulations; and numerous congressmen in western states have contacted the Secretary of Interior about relisting gray wolves under the ESA. It is apparent that should happen since this Commission and the Governor can't be trusted to manage wolves without malice and bias. The State of Montana can't be trusted with wolf management any longer in light of the draft regulations. If the Commission does not want the gray wolf relisted under the ESA it should negate all the proposed regulations.

If these draft regulations are permitted the end result will be multiple lawsuits; relisting of the gray wolf under the ESA; and a black eye to the state of Montana. I have no illusions that this corrupt and inept commission will do the right thing, but it can't claim it has not been warned.

Below are the draft regs as presented to the public on the MDFWP website: DRAFT Wolf hunting and trapping regulation proposal for 2021-2022, approved by Commission June 24.

Proposed wolf season options ranging from Limited New Tools to Maximum New Tools. The commission may treat these options discretely or mix and match tools across options or incorporate other tools/options. Unless specifically changed by commission adoption, season elements from the 2020 season are proposed and would remain unchanged.

- A harvest of 450 wolves (approximately 100 more harvested wolves than in 2020 season) shall initiate a commission quorum with potential for rapid in-season adjustments to hunting and trapping regulations. Afterwards the commission shall be similarly re-engaged at intervals of additional 50 wolves harvested, if season adjustments allow for additional wolf harvest.
- All non-target captures shall be reported to the department as currently required, to include captures from foothold traps and snares.
- A non-target capture of one lynx or grizzly bear shall initiate a commission quorum with potential for rapid in-season adjustments to trapping regulations. Afterwards the commission shall be similarly re-engaged for any additional non-target capture of lynx or grizzly bear.

 - Snares must have a breakaway device rated at 1,000 lbs. or less installed on the loop end,
 - Snares must be placed such that the bottom of the snare loop is at least 18 inches above the surface.
 - If snares are allowed on public lands, power-assisted (e.g., spring-loaded) snare locks are prohibited on wolf snares on public lands.
 - A relaxing snare lock is required on snares in lynx protection zones (LPZ's).
- Wolf and furbearer seasons continue to be set by the commission annually, to allow opportunity for season adjustments between consecutive seasons based upon review of harvest, population size, and conflicts.

Conclusion

This commission has shown nothing but contempt for the vast majority of Montanans who do not agree with these absurd regulations, and has become a blight to MDFWP. Please keep us apprised of any decisions made regarding wolf hunting/trapping regulations for 2021/22.

Sincerely,

ESA TRADITIONAL SECTION 6 FINAL PERFORMANCE REPORT

1. State: Idaho

Grant number: F18AF01195

Grant name: Idaho Panhandle Forest Carnivores

2. Report Period: August 13, 2018 through June 30, 2020

Report due date: September 28, 2020

3. Location of work: Idaho Panhandle

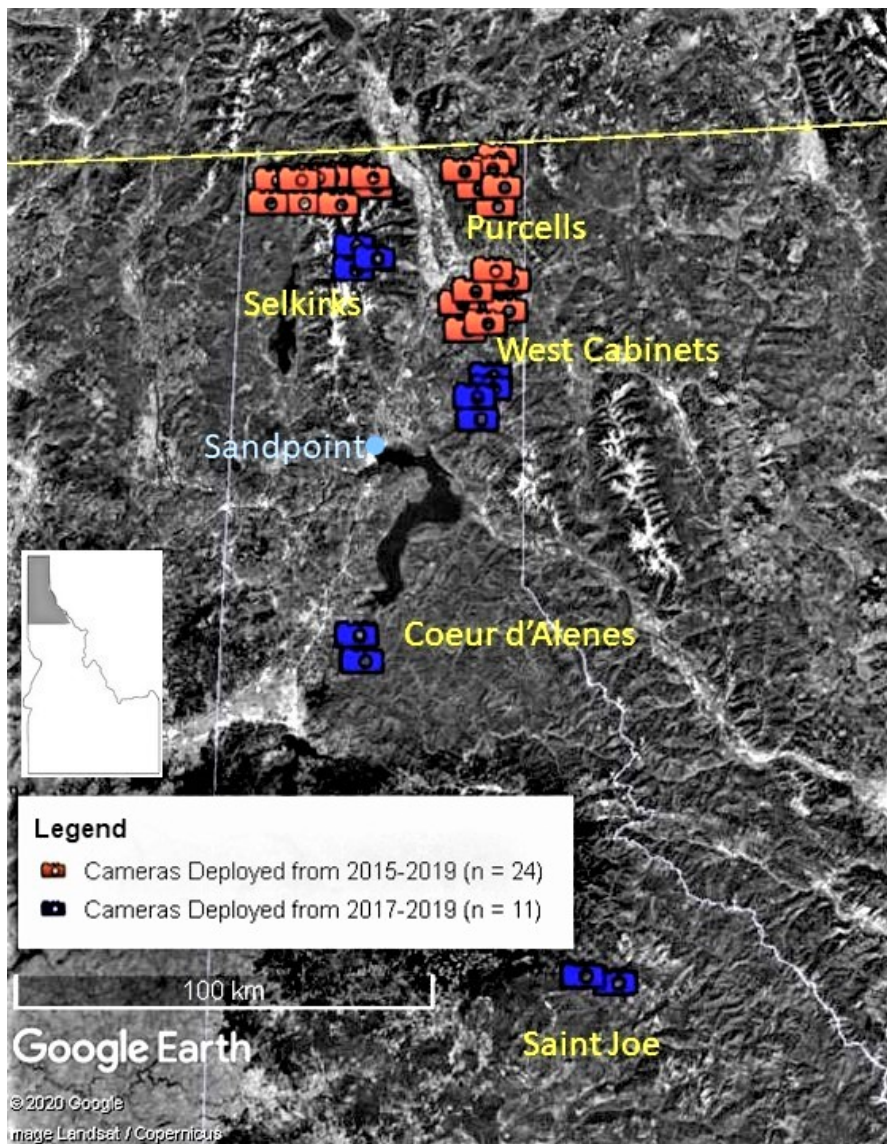

Figure 1. Study area. Cameras were deployed in 2015 or 2017 across five mountain ranges in the Idaho Panhandle.

4. Objectives

The Objectives of this grant are the following:

- 1) Visit and service 30 deployed cameras.
- 2) Process and summarize remote camera images collected from 2015-2019.
- 3) Produce 2 interim and 1 final report.

Target species are Canada lynx (Lynx canadensis) and wolverine (Gulo gulo).

5. If the work in this grant was part of a larger undertaking with other components and funding, present a brief overview of the larger activity and the role of this project.

This project was designed as continued monitoring of areas where Canada lynx (Lynx canadensis) and wolverine (Gulo gulo) were detected between 2010 and 2014 during the Multi-species Baseline Initiative (MBI) project (U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Wildlife and Sport Fish and Restoration Program Competitive State Wildlife Grant F12AP01101). This project has consisted of three Section 6 awards for which results are presented in this report. Collectively, the three awards have funded a continuous four-year deployment of an array of un-baited remote cameras. This report details the completion of the overall project including camera take down, processing of 2015-2019 camera images, and a summary of those images for the target species. The following summarizes how the activities of each award are related to each other:

F15AS00167: Idaho Panhandle Forest Carnivores

Performance Period: July 10, 2015-June 30, 2017

2015 activities: Deploy 24 un-baited remote cameras.

2016 activities: Service the 24 cameras by changing batteries and replacing memory cards.

F17AS00230: Idaho Panhandle Forest Carnivores,

Performance Period: August 1, 2017-June 30, 2019

2017 activities: Service the 24 cameras deployed in 2015 and deploy 11 additional cameras.

2018 activities: Service the 35 deployed cameras.

F18AF01195 (this grant): Idaho Panhandle Forest Carnivores

Performance Period: August 13, 2018-June 30, 2020

2018 activities: Begin processing remote camera images.

2019 activities: Collect all 35 deployed cameras. Continue processing remote camera images.

2020: Finalize review of remote camera images from 2015-2019 camera deployment.

6. Describe how the objectives were met.

For the cameras deployed in 2015, we selected clusters of six to ten 5x5 km² cells which were either the same or adjacent cells to where Canada lynx or wolverine were detected during the 2010-14 period consisting of the MBI project (Lucid et al. 2016). For the cameras deployed in 2017 we either chose a cell cluster approximately 10 km south of the 2015 cluster (Selkirks and West Cabinet Mountains) or clustered around the most recent verified lynx detection in the mountain range (Coeur d’Alene’s and Saint Joe Mountains; Albrecht and Heusser 2009). We used ArcGIS 10.1 (Environmental Systems Research Institute, Redlands, CA) to generate a buffer around each road and hiking trail in the cell. We then generated a random point within this buffer for the camera location. This resulted in survey sites which were randomly located but biased to roads and hiking trails and, thus, suitable for passive detection of lynx (King et al. 2020, Weingarth et al. 2015). Although this is an effective deployment method for detection of lynx (King et al. 2020, Weingarth et al. 2015), we recognize this technique is less suited to detection of wolverine (e.g., Robinson et al. 2017).

We deployed a Reconyx® PC800 or PC900 remote camera within 100 meters of the randomly selected point. Road and trail condition varied and included open gravel roads, decommissioned and heavily vegetated road beds, and maintained hiking trails. To allow the capture of maximum viewshed on varying road/trail bed types, cameras were placed 1-3 meters above and perpendicular to road/trail bed. Camera height and distance from road or trail was dependent on condition of vegetation. Cameras were attached to trees with a cable locking system and programmed as described in Table 1. No attractant was used and cameras operated undetected by animals passing by.

We deployed 24 cameras in 2015 and 16 cameras in 2017. Three of the cameras deployed in 2015 were missing (likely stolen) and two failed completely and had no data available. Therefore, although we deployed 40 cameras total, we report on only the 35 from which data are available. Hereafter, we refer only to the 35 cameras from which data are available (2015 deployment = 24 cameras, 2017 deployment = 11 cameras).

Table 1. Settings for Reconyx® PC800 and PC900 deployed along roads and hiking trails

We visited and serviced cameras once each year between July and October. Prior to fall 2019, ‘servicing’ a camera entailed an annual visit to collect images and replace memory cards and batteries. During the fall of 2019, ‘servicing’ a camera entailed removing the camera and associated hardware from deployment.

We downloaded images and used Timelapse 2.0 (<http://saul.cpsc.ucalgary.ca/timelapse/>) software to process images. We viewed each image individually and used the software to classify the species present in each image. We defined a ‘detection’ as a series of images of the same animal with ≤ 10 minutes separating each image. If multiple individuals were present in a single image we considered that image to be two ‘detections’ of the species. Multiple lynx individuals were only detected when kittens were present in images. We did not make a specific effort to use pelage color and animal size to differentiate individuals in photographs. With the exception of small kittens, we did not make a specific effort to differentiate juvenile from adult lynx. We defined camera failures as time periods where the camera was not working or when the lens was obscured by snow or tree branches. We considered a ‘trap day’ a 24 hour period from midnight to midnight. We considered the number of days between the first day of deployment and the day the camera was removed to be ‘possible trap days’. We considered all days for which the camera was working properly to be ‘actual trap days’.

Wolverine Detections-

We detected a single wolverine 2 times in the Purcell Mountains at camera 1293.

Lynx Detections-

Purcell Mountains-We detected lynx 248 times at 6 cameras in the Purcell Mountains. This is inclusive of six detections of lynx kittens in the Purcell Mountains (Table 2, Figure 2, and Figure 3).

Selkirk Mountains-We detected lynx 50 times at 10 cameras in the northern Selkirk Mountain cluster which was deployed in 2015. We did not detect lynx on the 3 cameras deployed in the southern Selkirk Mountain cluster which were deployed in 2017 (Table 2, Figure 2).

West Cabinet Mountains-We detected lynx 56 times at 8 cameras in the northern West Cabinet Mountains cluster which was deployed in 2015. We did not detect lynx on the 4 southern West Cabinet cameras which were deployed in 2017 (Table 2, Figure 2).

Couer d'Alene and Saint Joe Mountains-We did not detect lynx in these mountain ranges.

ESA TRADITIONAL SECTION 6 INTERIM PERFORMANCE REPORT

1. State: Idaho

Grant number: F19AF00808

Grant name: Selkirk-Cabinet/Yaak Ecosystem Grizzly Bears

2. Report Period: July 1, 2019 – June 30, 2020

Report due date: September 28, 2020

3. Location of work: Selkirk and Cabinet-Yaak ecosystem within Idaho, Boundary and Bonner Counties, Game Management Unit 1.

4. Objectives (list project objectives from grant proposal or grant agreement)

1) Establish camera and DNA sites to document Recovery Plan criteria (S12, USFWS 1993)

2) Provide public outreach, sanitation education, and enforcement presence (S131, S2112, S2113, S62, USFWS 1993).

3) Provide technical assistance as needed to federal, state, and private entities. This activity is primarily intended to reduce threats to listed species and to provide scientific information as needed.

5. If the work in this grant was part of a larger undertaking with other components and funding, present a brief overview of the larger activity and the role of this project

This work is part of a larger effort to recover grizzly bears in the Selkirk and Cabinet-Yaak ecosystems. U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) has been involved in all aspects of grizzly bear recovery. Significant work and funding is also provided by the British Columbia Ministry of Environment and the B.C. Columbia Basin Compensation Program. There is a B.C. representative as a member of the U.S. grizzly bear recovery team. Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are involved in grizzly bear recovery efforts in the Cabinet-Yaak ecosystem, part of which is in Idaho. Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife are involved in grizzly bear recovery efforts in the Selkirk ecosystem. U.S. Forest Service districts are also involved in grizzly bear recovery efforts in these ecosystems of Idaho, Montana, and Washington. Recently the Kootenai Tribe of Idaho and the Kalispel Tribe have been more involved in grizzly bear recovery efforts.

6. Describe how the objectives were met

Objective 1: Remote cameras, in conjunction with DNA hair snare sites (corrals), were deployed in the Selkirk and Cabinet-Yaak ecosystem. Once established, cameras and snare sites were visited every 2 weeks to change memory cards and replace batteries in the cameras. Hairs were collected and barbs were cleaned on the hair snare sites and fresh lure, if used, was placed inside the hair snare site. Additionally, rub trees were identified and barbed wire was placed on these trees in an attempt to obtain grizzly bear hair.

In 2019, 2,331 samples were collected from 410 rub sites and 122 corral sites in the Selkirk ecosystem and 2,360 samples were collected from 830 rub sites and 29 corral sites in the Cabinet-Yaak ecosystem. Twenty-eight corral sites produced photos of grizzly bears in the Selkirk Ecosystem and 8 corral sites produced photos of grizzly bears in the Cabinet-Yaak ecosystem. Hair samples were submitted to Wildlife Genetics lab in British Columbia for DNA analysis.

While field efforts are currently underway in 2020, to date crews have visited approximately 380 rub sites and 35 corral sites in the Selkirk ecosystem and 110 rub sites and 12 corral sites in the Cabinet-Yaak ecosystem. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic and related restrictions, field efforts have been reduced in 2020 compared to previous years. Hair samples will be submitted to Wildlife Genetics lab in British Columbia for DNA analysis.

Objective 2: In June 2019, grizzly 865 returned from his winter den in the Yaak and killed five lambs at 2 different farms near Porthill, Idaho. After the second depredation, the bear was trapped and euthanized. Near Copeland, a grizzly sow with cubs of the year raided a chicken coop twice getting unsecured chicken feed. The coop was secured with electric fencing and the home owners provided with bear proof trash cans for feed storage. In addition, an unmarked adult male entered a barn near Mt. Hall and tore into a large bag of unsecured barley. A total of 20 bear proof trash cans were distributed to home owners in areas of high potential for grizzly bear conflicts in 2019. A permanent electric fence was also built for a landowner in Crossport to protect their orchard against future bear depredations, as they experienced severe damage to their orchard in 2018 from grizzly 865.

In 2020, to date, there have been 8 grizzly bear depredations on fruit trees, pig pens, and chicken coops. All of these conflicts occurred on the North Bench area of Boundary County. In addition, numerous reports of grizzly bear sightings occurred in the same area. Bear resistant garbage cans are being distributed to residents living in areas with high potential for grizzly bear conflicts.

Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic and related restrictions, numerous grizzly bear educational presentations were conducted in the Bonners Ferry and Sandpoint area. In addition, spring enforcement patrols were conducted focusing effort on locations that receive high grizzly bear use and black bear hunting pressure. Three separate grizzly bear poaching investigations are currently ongoing.

Objective 3: Technical assistance was provided to federal, state and private land management agencies through comments on timber sales, timing of activities related to logging, including active cutting and hauling activities on an as-needed basis. Technical assistance included participation in forest collaboratives and through comments during the NEPA process. Assistance with private land owners was accomplished primarily through meetings set up by the private companies/individuals themselves.

7. Discuss differences between work anticipated in grant proposal and grant agreement, and that actually carried out with Federal Aid grant funds

The objectives identified in the grant proposal and agreement were achieved.

8. List any publications or in-house reports resulting from this work.

To the Montana Fish and Wildlife Service:

I oppose the wolf-hunting regulations that allow night hunting, baited hunting/trapping, and snare trapping. These are the cruelest ways to harm and kill an animal. Montana already has aggressive hunting and trapping seasons for wolves — and its wolf population is already decreasing. The state doesn't need to expand the seasons or approve new tools for killing wolves.

Increasing the number of wolves to be massacred is incomprehensible when gray wolf populations are already functionally extinct throughout the rest of the United States.

Additionally, the baiting and trapping tactics increase the risk of killing other wildlife and even family pets.

Wolves are essential to healthy ecosystems, causing a trickle-down effect that increases plant and animal biodiversity. They are also an integral part of Montana's culture.

Re: Montana wolf hunting and trapping regulations for 2021-2022

Members of the Commission:

On behalf of the National Parks Conservation Association (NPCA), I appreciate the opportunity to comment on the proposed Montana wolf hunting and trapping regulations for 2021-2022, approved by the Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission on June 24, 2021. These comments are submitted on behalf of the more than 8,800 members and supporters across Montana.

Since 1919, NPCA has been the leading voice of the American people in protecting and enhancing our National Park System, working with our more than 1.6 million members and supporters to preserve our nation's natural, historical, and cultural heritage for present and future generations. NPCA has a longstanding interest in protecting national parks and their resources, including wildlife, land, and water, both inside national parks and on park adjacent landscapes. We are particularly interested in this proposal as it relates to one of Yellowstone and Glacier National Park's most iconic species, gray wolves.

NPCA recognizes the challenges of managing wolves across Montana and supports advancing management that balances wildlife conservation and the viability of working lands. Montana has long been a leader in science-based approaches to wildlife management leading to arguably some of the nation's most robust wildlife populations. During the 2021 Montana Legislative session wolves and other large carnivores were targeted by a litany of legislation that diverted away from the precedent set for decades of science-based management.

These new laws undermine the ability of professional wildlife managers to use science and their local expertise to manage for healthy populations and instead promote the unprecedented attack on predator species. These new laws undermine the tenants of fair chase and ethical hunting practices that have been foundational to Montana's hunting and trapping legacy. In addition, many of the new laws allow for extended trapping seasons and increased snaring further raising concern due to the impact these changes could have on federally threatened species including grizzly bears and lynx.

Yellowstone Field Office

While Montana has been managing wolves through most of the state without quotas, three hunting districts that abut Yellowstone and Glacier national parks have retained quotas to reduce the impact of hunting on the conservation of packs that move between the parks and adjacent landscapes. The removal of quotas around Yellowstone and Glacier in hunting districts 110, 313 and 316 is an unnecessary proposal that will impact tourism opportunities in gateway communities. Millions of people come to Yellowstone and Glacier each year for the chance to view wolves in the wild. These tourists spend tens of millions of dollars annually supporting small businesses in and around national parks in Montana. In addition, wolf viewing supports gateway communities during the ‘shoulder seasons’ and winter, when park tourism declines but wolf viewing remains a popular activity. Decreased winter tourism due to limited wolf viewing could significantly reduce the critical off-season economic support upon which these communities depend.

We strongly urge the Fish and Wildlife Commission to maintain local flexibility within wildlife management by keeping the quota systems in place for hunting districts 110, 313 and 316.

We appreciate the opportunity to provide input during this comment period. We look forward to reviewing the information provided as the Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission considers the impact this proposed change will have on the unique resources that attract millions of visitors to Yellowstone and Glacier.

Members of the Commission:

On behalf of our more than 4,000 members and online activists in Montana, the Natural Resources Defense Council (“NRDC”) submits the following comments regarding Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks’ (“FWP”) proposed changes to the 2021-2022 wolf hunting and trapping regulations (“Proposal”).

The range of options under consideration in the Proposal center on increasing the tools and allowances for wolf hunting and trapping. Although we understand that the Proposal is a response to new state laws passed in the recent 2021 legislative session, we consider these laws to be unwarranted, politically motivated, and out of step with Montana’s long reputation for wildlife conservation leadership.

We recognize that the Fish and Wildlife Commission (“Commission”) must act in accordance with legislative intent but encourage you to employ the high level of discretion you continue to have as you work to implement the laws. The issues we raise in the following sections evidence the need to limit the tools and geographic scope of the proposed options.

I. The Commission should consider input from diverse stakeholder groups in a fair and inclusive way.

NRDC actively engaged in the legislative process to oppose SB 314, HB 224 and HB 225, as did many members of the public from diverse backgrounds. Hunters, scientists, wildlife professionals,¹ recreationalists, landowners and other Montanans have voiced their opposition to further liberalizing wolf hunting and trapping in the state. Many more individuals and groups have spoken up in opposition during the public comment sessions offered by the Commission—far outweighing those who spoke in favor of the more aggressive options in the Proposal.²

Montana’s 2004 Wolf Conservation and Management Plan includes the objectives to “Maintain positive and effective working relationships with stakeholders,” and “Increase broad public acceptance of sustainable harvest and hunter opportunity as part of wolf conservation.”³ FWP’s stakeholders include those who value wildlife for reasons other than harvest opportunity, and their voices deserve equal weight as those of hunters and trappers. Allowing new wolf hunting and trapping tools that are largely considered unethical will decrease the public's acceptance of hunting as part of wolf management.⁴ Wolf hunters and trappers—who represent less than .1% of the public in Montana—should not have a privileged position over wildlife management decision-making. Hunters and trappers will receive less and less support from the public as increasingly aggressive and unethical harvest measures are put into practice.

II. The Commission has the authority to further limit the options in the proposal while still adhering to legislative intent.

The legislators who sponsored the new wolf laws repeatedly asserted during the legislative session that the language in their bills was crafted to leave authority in the Commission's hands and that commissioners would have a high level of discretion in deciding if, how and where new management tools would be allowed. As the proposal notes, the legislative intent for the new bills was characterized in large part as a response to alleged concerns about impacts by wolves on wild ungulate populations, particularly in northwest and western Montana.⁵ As the Commission is aware, elk are at or over objective across most of the state.

A relevant exchange on the legislative intent of SB 314 took place on March 16, 2021, during the House Fish, Wildlife and Parks Committee hearing on the bill.⁶ Representative Tom France asked Senator Bob Brown—the bill sponsor—what he thought about reducing wolf populations in parts of the state where elk populations are above management objectives. Senator Brown's response in that hearing was to say that (1) the Commission will have the discretion to decide how to manage wolves in different areas of the state; (2) he didn't believe the Commission would set liberal wolf seasons in those areas that were over elk objective; and (3) he expected the Commission would set more liberal seasons in the areas where elk are suffering more loss.⁷

According to FWP's 2020 Montana elk population counts, there are only 16 hunting districts in the state that were below objective in 2020.⁸ Therefore, even if one believes wolves are to blame for declining elk populations, the majority of the options in the Proposal take an unjustified statewide blanket approach. This proposal should strictly limit the geographic scope for each of the tools under consideration and decline to allow more wolves to be killed anywhere that elk are meeting or exceeding objectives. As noted in the Proposal, there is some evidence that Montana's wolf population is already declining under current policies, negating the need for any increased tools in order to meet the legislative intent of SB 314.⁹ Furthermore, the predator-prey relationship is extraordinarily complex (refer to the following section) and a focus on killing more wolves will divert people's attention away from the more significant and proven threats to sustained ungulate populations, which include environmental factors that are primarily driven by human causes.¹⁰

III. The claim that wolves are having a negative effect on elk is misleading.

FWP should avoid repeating unsubstantiated and misleading claims about the effect of wolves on ungulate populations and the Commission should use the best available evidence to guide their decisions. Killing wolves does not definitively lead to increased opportunity for hunting ungulates. The legislature did not hold space to consider scientific and objective evidence in their decision-making process. The Commission has a higher responsibility to consider the complexities, to weigh the risks, and to ensure decisions are backed up by credible evidence. We appreciate the Commissioner’s questions and requests for more information about the interactions of wolves and elk during the June 24th public meeting, and provide the following helpful information relevant to this topic:

According to FWP’s harvest data, elk hunter success has ebbed and flowed over the last 15 years, with a low of 18.74% in 2013 and a high of 27.14% in 2015.¹¹ Elk hunter success has remained very good in Montana, even compared to other states that don’t have established wolf populations.¹² The table on the right demonstrates Montana’s consistent elk hunter success rates, which are calculated by dividing the total elk harvested by the total number of elk hunters. These numbers demonstrate that a stable wolf population and hunter opportunity can effectively coexist.

During a legislative hearing for HB 224 on February 18, 2021, FWP’s Ken McDonald was called as an informational witness to answer the question of whether or not wolves have caused deer and elk populations to fall below population targets and, if they have, in which hunting districts. His response was, “We don’t have any firm information to address that and again, with ungulate populations, there’s so much variability, including weather, predation—wolves just being one of the predators—and other factors that lead to that, so we can’t say for certain for any hunting district.”¹³ If FWP cannot produce any evidence that wolves are a primary cause of elk population declines in the few places in the state where that is occurring, then the Commission should re-evaluate its Proposal to ensure that wolves will not be killed needlessly on the basis of myths and fear mongering.

Importantly, wolf predation is not inherently “negative.” Renowned wolf expert David Mech stated recently, “Based upon everything I’ve seen over the course of my career, I generally stand behind the assertion that wolves make prey populations healthier. The evidence to support it is overwhelming.”¹⁴ For example, studies indicate that wolves and other predators can reduce the prevalence of disease in prey populations by targeting sick or weak individuals.¹⁵ The Commission should consider the benefits of wolves as much as any costs or burdens. Ungulate populations must not be measured in numbers alone, but also by the health and resiliency of the herds.

IV. The Commission should retain the quota areas and corresponding quotas in hunting districts that border national parks.

Each year, millions of people travel to Montana to visit Yellowstone and Glacier national parks. The opportunity to see wolves and other wildlife in their natural habitats is a major attraction that is unparalleled across the nation. On any given day in Yellowstone this spring, it was not uncommon to see hundreds of people lined up on the side of road, hoping to catch even a fleeting glimpse of a wolf. According to the National Parks Service, hundreds of millions of dollars are spent annually by tourists visiting Montana's national parks, playing a major part in the local economies of surrounding towns.¹⁶ The Commission accurately predicts in the Proposal that "the elimination of quota areas around the national parks will also be strongly opposed by wolf advocates."¹⁷ This is because Yellowstone wolves spark the passion and concern of wildlife enthusiasts across the country. Killing these wolves damages Montana's national reputation and causes intense pushback from the general public.

Yellowstone wolves also hold an outsized value to science at national and international scales. Their reintroduction and long-term monitoring have provided unique and important contributions to the field of ecology.¹⁸ Killing wolves that step beyond the invisible park boundary—especially those that are collared—hinders scientists' abilities to conduct on-going and long-term research.¹⁹ Eliminating the quota areas or quotas in park-adjacent hunting districts would needlessly impact the state's national reputation and harm an internationally-renowned research project.

V. The Commission should reject options that incorporate night hunting, baiting, an extended trapping season and other tools that are not specifically required by legislation.

NRDC strongly opposes the use of unethical and unnecessary tools such as snaring, night hunting, baiting, increased bag limits and the extension of wolf trapping season dates. Many of these tools became illegal in the state long ago because sportsmen's groups recognized the importance of ethics and fair chase principles to the future of hunting. These tools also come with serious collateral damage, especially because the combination of snaring, a longer trapping season, and monetary incentives for killing wolves (through SB 267) would certainly lead to more traps on the landscape for longer, which poses a threat to non-target wildlife, including grizzly bears, wolverines and lynx.

In particular, extending the trapping season will increase overlap between trappers and grizzly bears. Researchers are taking note of bears entering dens a little later in the year and emerging earlier than they used to, in response to changing food availability and weather patterns.²⁰ Extending the wolf trapping season risks human safety, bear safety,²¹ and the terrible publicity of grizzly bears wandering around with traps stuck to their bodies, as we have seen documented in Wyoming.²² Any further liberalization of trapping should come with strict accountability measures, including increased reporting requirements, increased monitoring, and increased penalties for failing to follow regulations. FWP should also ensure greater transparency by making non-target capture information consistently available to the public. This is especially important in light of the proposal to allow snares on private lands, because snares are known to be highly indiscriminate and cruel.

VI. Conclusion

For the reasons stated above, we oppose the intermediate and maximum options in the Proposal and urge the Commission to further limit the geographic scope of the Proposal. We also urge the commissioners to reflect on the recorded legislative hearings and consider the words of the legislators who vowed to leave regulatory decisions about wolf hunting and trapping in the hands of the Commission.

Thank you for considering these comments.

Sincerely,

To the Montana Fish & Wildlife Commission,

I'm writing today in regards to your public comment period on the implementation of new wolf hunting & trapping regulations.

We are deeply concerned by the risks of dramatically expanding wolf hunting & trapping in Montana. Wolves are an iconic species in the West, and a cornerstone of healthy ecosystems. Montana's reintroduction and management of wolves has been a success story until now. But the recent turn toward more aggressive hunting, driven by the state legislature, could put us on a road toward practices that would be truly devastating for this magnificent animal.

We would urge you to minimize the expansion of hunting and trapping, and of the options put on the table in your June 24 meeting, we urge you to adopt nothing more aggressive than the 'Limited New Tools.'

Attached are the names of over 18,000 concerned Americans -- many of them Montanans - - who signed the following petition:

In 2020, Montana's wolves faced a challenging year. During the 2020 season, hunters killed 320 wolves -- a notable uptick from the average of 242 wolves killed in the last eight years.

With the state's wolves already on the decline, it's crucial for the health of Montana's ecosystems to prevent a total collapse of wolf populations. Overzealous hunting once drove wolves from Montana completely.

That's why, for the health of this great state, I urge you not to enact these proposed regulations.

I hope that you keep their voices in mind as you weigh what is, without a doubt, a complex issue with a wide variety of passionate stakeholders.

Thank you for your consideration,

Patrick Kelly-Fischer

Subject: [EXTERNAL] 2021 Wolf Season—Proposed Rules
Date: Monday, July 19, 2021 3:06:04 PM

Montana Fish & Wildlife Commission,

I am writing to comment on the proposed rules for managing wolves under recently-passed legislation.

The 2021 Legislature went too far, passing extreme anti-wolf measures that are out of step with what most Montanans want. Wolf mortality is already at an all-time high—400 wolves died in 2019 (300 by hunting & trapping). Expanding seasons and adding new wolf killing measures is unnecessary and unwise.

Please keep snares off of the public lands where many Montanans like to recreate. They create a hazard for people, pets and wildlife. And since snares are cheap, trappers may place thousands out on the landscape, neglecting to pick them up after the trapping season closes.

Please retain the limited quotas for wolves adjacent to our National Parks—millions of tourists spend money in Montana's gateway communities around the National Parks, hoping to catch a glimpse of a wolf, bear and other wildlife.

Please also continue to prohibit the use of bait and hunting at night.

The recovery of wolves in Montana is one of the great American wildlife conservation achievements, about which Montanans are proud to have played a key role. Let's keep it that way with a conservative and cautious approach to wolf management.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide comment.

I am a lifelong hunter, with graduate studies in Forestry and Wildlife Management. I was on the Yellowstone Center for Resources team that restored gray wolves to the park, and have been studying and teaching about wolves since 1985. If wolves must be hunted, I favor Limited New Tools over the other two alternatives.

In our desperate, heartless, morally indefensible slaughter of wolves, we are eliminating the very real possibility that, if allowed to perform their natural role in wild systems of selecting out diseased prey, and reducing the spread of plagues such as chronic wasting disease, we are doing a disservice to hunters, and to the majority of Montana's citizens who appreciate wolves for their intrinsic values.

Father of game management in America Aldo Leopold wrote, "Harmony with the land is like harmony with a friend; you cannot cherish his right hand and chop off his left. That is to say, you cannot love game and hate predators....The land is one organism."

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Comments on otter trapping quotas
Date: Monday, July 19, 2021 1:59:36 PM

Dear Commissioners:

I am writing to express my opposition to increased otter trapping quotas.

The anecdotal evidence that, "we could harvest without negatively impacting the otter population" is not a good enough reason to increase otter trapping quotas. Furthermore, FWP does not feel that a change in the harvest regulation for otters is even necessary.

Incidental catches of otter should be factored in the decision making, especially considering that they are often caught in beaver traps (which run for up to 9 months each year). In addition, these incidental takes do not come off the next year's quota as they should. Also, the majority of reported incidental trapped otter are already from Regions 1 and 2. With otter trapping season running from Nov 1 to April 15, it is concurrent with otter gestation and dependent young which is especially cruel.

Despite the fact that FWP otter harvest reports' numbers are not consistent, our otter populations are still based on those harvest reports and anecdotal information, This is problematic because the increased proposed otter quota equals the approximate trapping total currently for our entire state.

Lastly, we are currently in a state of emergency due to drought. Our wildlife is already struggling and already facing increased mortality. This is not the right year to increase trapping when temperatures are high and water levels low.

Please consider my comments before you proceed.

Dear Commissioners:

Thank you for having a place to make comments on the wolf trapping issue. The proposed wolf regulations seem like they are intended to wipe out wolves from Montana. As I understand it, the new regulations say that the wolf season would be four weeks longer, that snares may be used, that night hunting is allowed, that $1000 bounties can be paid, and that people can trap as many wolves as they want. I don't know what percentage of Montanans are trappers, but probably very little, like 5% or less.

I just want to say that one of Montana's biggest treasures is its wildlife. Please don't kill all our wildlife. Wolves are such a symbol of wildness. Trapping also is from the old days and has no place in our lives now. I think it is cruel to do this, and unethical, and will be a huge loss to allow all this trapping. So many types of animals in Montana are already receding from over-trapping. If there is any way you can moderate these proposed regulations or get rid of the worse parts of them, I am totally for it. I also heard that more otters will be trapped. I have never even seen an otter even in Yellowstone Park. I have seen wolves a long time ago in the park but not outside of it. Please think of our future. We don't need Montana to be another sterile state with people crawling over and no wildlife.

Thank you for listening.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Elk shoulder season comment
Date: Friday, July 16, 2021 10:00:56 PM

I feel the elk shoulder season should be eliminated. The only way to control the elk population is to take the money out of it. I feel that if there is an elk overpopulation problem in a particular area, that area should be open to antlerless only until the population reaches FWP objectives. Land owners may shut off their ground for a year or so in protest but I'm sure will change their minds once the elk are eating them out of house and home. When I first started hunting in the late 70s in Meagher county there were no locked gates on private land because elk weren't worth anything more than the cost of a hunting tag. By the mid 80s when the outfitting came about, gates were locked because private landowners wanted to protect their precious commodity (elk). One has to look no farther than area 380 in the Elkhorns to see a management policy that really works. Most private land in 380 is in block management as there is no big money in spike and cow elk. The population numbers are kept in check by lots of public hunting and the trophy class is outstanding if one is able to draw one of the much sought after either sex (big bull tags). Thank you for taking the time to read my comment.

- Please stay with agreement with Montana hunters. Shoulder seasons aren't meant to replace the harvest during Montana's archery and rifle seasons. Hunters support fair chase and ethical hunting. Chasing elk in deep snows and bitter cold when they're just trying to survive is not supported by hunters, or the general public.
- We need to see the data on whether these hunts are opening up more hunting access in the archery and rifle seasons, when we need the most elk harvest to effectively manage them, including by getting elk back onto public lands.
- This was never the deal that FWP made with the hunters of Montana, and it's wrong to extend these hunts another month after elk have already been hunted for five months.

Shoulder seasons mean fewer elk on public lands, more leasing of private lands and de facto game farming of our public elk for private interests to profit off of it.

Hello Chair Leslie Robinson,

I live in western Montana where wolves are a problem. my son hunted a place for 4-5 years and would hear many bull elk bugling every year... now when he goes there is no sign of elk and he can hear wolves howling. We have had wolves on our property tear into deer and leave them half dead suffering dragging a leg. also we've had wolves in plain sight (daylight) running through our fields! not good when you have cattle.

I'm asking you as a commissioner to please listen to the people who are living the aftermath of these vicious wolves to please keep the wolf snaring and longer wolf trapping seasons in regions 1,2,3 where 90% of the wolves occur- as intended in the 2021 legislation of House Bills 224,225 and Senate Bill 314.

Please hear from local tax payers!

Thanks for your time!

Subject: Comments about 2021-2022 Wolf Hunt Proposal

Dear Commissioner Robinson,

Thank you for the opportunity to provide comments on the 2021-2022 Wolf Hunting and Trapping Regulations Proposal. I provide the following feedback as both a Montana resident and a local, female, small business owner who is supporting my livelihood and that of my small staff in this beautiful state, with much gratitude.

1. I support implementation of all of the options under ‘Limited New Tools’ for wolf management in the proposed wolf hunting season options table.
2. As a business owner and year-round resident of wolf management unit 313, where living wolves are of tremendous economic and social value, I strongly support maintaining the current quota of 2 wolves in management units 313 and 316, near Yellowstone NP and the current quotas near Glacier. In the Gardiner and Silver Gate gateway communities, a healthy wolf population is the highest value, economically, for research, and because people want wild wolves in the ecosystem. I operate wildlife watching and hiking tours in Yellowstone and the Gardiner Ranger District of Gallatin NF. My clients visit Montana to see living grizzlies and wolves and really hope to see mountain lion too. The entirety of my livelihood and that of my two employees depend on these animals being present and abundant in this ecosystem.
3. The proposed hunting quota of 450 wolves annually must be reduced. This plan would take 50% of the population, which is not sustainable at a population level according to MTFWP’s own data, stated objectives (harvests not to exceed 29% of the population) and other peer reviewed north American research (e.g. “Population Dynamics and Harvest Characteristics of Wolves in the Central Brooks Range, Alaska”). Montana’s wolf population is of value to a diverse array of stakeholders from trophy hunters to wolf watchers. Their populations should be managed as a resource (like mountain lions), not driven toward extirpation. High harvest quotas like this make FWP seem as though it is managing wolves as vermin and abandoning the North American Model of Wildlife Management. Overharvest will lead to wolves being federally relisted, which will restrict management options in the future. Isn’t that an outcome that we would all prefer to avoid? If this high quota is aimed at increasing elk populations or decreasing depredation, it is important to note that elk populations in the state already exceed FWP's goals in nearly every region, AND depredations are low (averaging 60 domestic animals per year, including cattle).

4. The wolf season needs to be shorter. MTFWP allows killing of wolves Sept-Nov, when the pelts are useless. It is considered wasteful and unethical.

5. I support improving the regulations to prevent a series of impractical emergency meetings becoming necessary.

6. Trapping or snaring should not be allowed in areas where there are lynx and grizzly bears. Non-target capture and mortality is likely because trappers are not required to check their equipment regularly. In other areas, these activities should be allowed ONLY on private lands, with landowner permission and liability. These activities pose significant risk to all other users of public lands, to livestock, domestic animals and non-target wildlife species. They significantly limit multiple uses on public lands, which is completely unfair to other users/stakeholders.

7. I oppose all baiting and night hunting. It is unsporting and inhumane. People and dogs will die from these activities. They are way too dangerous. Baiting will also lead to more bear problems that will increase costs and workload for already under-resourced state agencies. I acknowledge that MTFWP staff are already working very hard with extremely limited resources. Their jobs do not need to become more difficult or dangerous.

Thank you for considering my comments.

Sincerely,

Cara McGary

Chairman Robinson,

The ONLY response to the Final Wolf Proposal by the Commission SHOULD BE as below:

Licenses: 1 required

Bag Limit: none

Trapping season dates: 1st Monday after Thanksgiving until March 15 following

snaring: UNRESTRICTED statewide

Night hunting: night hunting STATEWIDE only on private lands

Use of baits: UNRESTRICTED statewide

Quote areas: NONE

This would satisfy legislative intent of 'We the People', as proposed, passed by OUR legislators, and signed into law by OUR Governor, and as noted by the crushing of I-177 in 2016

It is your job, as OUR employees to implement this intent.

By the way, Idaho allows the use of snares in areas with endangered species. I certainly think that Montanans can do the same!

Subject: FW: FWP Commission meeting about rulings on wolf hunting & trapping season

FWP Commission Chair Leslie Robinson,

My comments requesting that the FWP Commission follow the legislative intent of HB224, HB225 and SB314, especially in Regions 1, 2 and 3 are below. These comments are for the July 26 FWP Commission meeting to set wolf hunting and trapping regulations to ensure that those regulations follow the Legislative Intent of the laws that the Montana Legislature passed this spring.

Many of the proposals offered by FWP staff regarding the "Wolf Season Proposed" portion of the June 24th Commission meeting agenda do not all meet the "legislative intent" of HB224 and HB224 (which I sponsored) and SB314 (which my Senator Bob Brown) sponsored.

The legislative intent of HB224, HB225 and SB314 was to reduce the wolf population, with the wildlife management tools provided within those bills, where wolves are overabundant. Legislative intent includes the written text of the legislation as well as testimony given during the legislative hearings on the bill. During hearings on these 3 bills, the sponsors specifically referred to the need to reduce wolf numbers in western Montana and made no distinction between public and private lands.

You have information from FWP staff which indicates that 90% of the wolves in Montana (165 packs and 1,015) wolves) are within Regions 1, 2, and 3 in western Montana. You have been given a table of options for enacting hunting and trapping regulations that meet the intent of HB224, HB225, and SB314. At the bottom of that table are footnotes some of which omit Regions 1, 2, and 3 from wolf reduction measures provided in these 3 bills passed into law because those regions contain grizzly bears and or lynx protective zones. Many of the options proposed by FWP staff in that table and footnotes seem (to me) to be a deeply hidden attempt to circumvent legislative intent of HB224, HB225 & SB314.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->1. <!--[endif]-->SB314 clearly called for harvest of an unlimited number of wolves by the holder of a single wolf hunting or wolf trapping license. Anything less than that fails to meet the legislative intent of SB314.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->2. <!--[endif]-->SB314, in calling for an unlimited of wolves to be harvested by properly licensed individuals, raised the individual bag limit for wolf harvest from 5 to an unlimited number. Keeping Region 3 at a limit of 5 wolves per individual or not increasing the bag limit above 5 wolves per individual conflicts with legislative intent of SB314. This last season, only 6 individuals harvested the present allowable bag limit of 5 wolves. SB314 allows the few very good wolf hunters and trappers to be a more valuable management tools in reducing wolf numbers.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->3. <!--[endif]-->HB225 allows an increase of the wolf trapping season so it would run from the first Monday after Thanksgiving until March 15 (an increase of about 30 days, depending on the year). The option of not changing the wolf trapping season completely ignores legislative intent. The other 2 options (and the 4th footnote to Table 1) fail to meet legislative intent because these options and the footnote exclude Regions 1, 2 and 3 where 90% of the wolves occur. We do not need to reduce wolf numbers in eastern Montana and along the North and South Dakota borders! Excluding Regions 1, 2 and 3 from the extended wolf trapping seasons in a major violation of the legislative intent of HB225.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->4. <!--[endif]-->HB224 allows for the snaring of wolves by licensed trappers during trapping season. There was never any legislative intent to limit wolf snaring to private lands during the trapping season. In 2016, Ballot Initiative I-177 was presented to the voters which would have prohibited the use of traps and snares on public lands. I-177 was voted down by 63% of the voters in Montana and failed to gain a majority of the votes in 55 of the 56 counties in Montana. Clearly, Montana voters supported the use of traps and snares on public lands in Montana. For FWP staff to propose to the Commission that the results of HB224 be excluded from public lands clearly circumvents and violates the legislative intent of HB224 and the citizen's response against I-177.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->5. <!--[endif]-->SB314 allows night hunting of wolves on private lands in Montana. Excluding wolf management units 313 and 316 is outside the legislative intent of SB314. Only the Table 1 "Maximum New Tools" option for Night Hunting meets the legislative intent of SB314.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->6. <!--[endif]-->SB314 allows the use of bait while hunting and trapping wolves during the wolf trapping season. Any recommended options that do not implement this baiting portion of SB314 or to exclude public lands or wolf management units 331 or 316 from the baiting portion of SB314 is outside the legislative intent.

Montana had a January 2021 estimated wolf population of 1,156 wolves, including about 190 packs of wolves. The Montana Wolf Management Plan calls for a minimum of 150 wolves and 15 breeding pairs. Because only about 27% of wolf packs have a breeding pair, the 15 breeding pair requirement of the Montana Wolf Management Plan necessitates a need for approximately 282 wolves. Montana's present wolf population is four times greater than what is required by the management plan. Thus, legislators in western Montana successfully brought legislation to reduce the Montana wolf population so that it will be closer to the requirement of the Montana Wolf Management Plan.

This is not about fair chase – it is about reducing the Montana wolf population to get it closer to the Montana Wolf Management Plan criteria.

During the 2021 legislative session, HB224, HB225, and SB314 were thoroughly vetted during legislative committee hearings and floor sessions. Proponents and opponents to these legislative bills provided hours of testimony for and against these bills and the bills were passed by a majority of the legislators and signed into law the Governor Gianforte. At the June 24th FWP Commission hearing, proponents again testified against the FWP proposals to implement these bills. Those arguments have already been heard and addressed during the legislative process. All that remains is for the FWP Commission to implement the laws that have been passed so that the “legislative intent” of those laws is complied with, including in Regions 1, 2 and 3.

Respectfully,
Representative Paul C Fielder, Thompson Falls, HD-13

How much livestock, how many pets and how many people have to die before the Wildlife Division of MT Dept of Fish, Wildlife and Parks recognize that there are too many wolves. There are 1,156 wolves documented right now, and the Wolf Mgmt Plan requires 282. That is 874 more wolves than required and they have not stopped breeding. House Bills 224, 225 and Senate Bill 314 were written, reviewed, commented on and passed by the Legislature, the will of the citizens of this state. The Citizens of Montana want wolf snaring and longer wolf trapping seasons in regions 1, 2 and 3 where 90% of the wolves occur - as intended by the Legislative Bills listed above. The Districts where the large populations of wolves are need to be included under the law. Do we need wolves dragging tourist's out of their tents like the grizzly did in Ovando last week, before we combat the threat?

We carry a pistol when we get our mail because of wolves and grizzly bears.

Greetings Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission,
The recent wolf trapping legislation is cruel and unnecessary. I am a regular public land user, advocate for viable predator/prey relationships in wildlife populations, and a dog owner. I urge you to at least take these steps listed below to minimize the damage to wolves and other wildlife.

Anne Dahl, Condon, MT

- Require 24 hour trap checks.
- Prohibit the use of snares on public lands.
- Obtain written permission from landowner for the use of snares.
- Require wolf trapping certification inclusive of snaring for anyone trapping for wolves.
- Require snares have diverters, relaxing lock, 275 lb. rated breakaway, a stop for a minimum loop size of 10", and the bottom of the loop a minimum of 18" above the surface.
- Limit the number of wolves who can be snared to one per certified trapper.
- Limit the number of snares and leghold traps a trapper can set.
- Require trappers keep maps of their snare locations.
- Prohibit power snares and the use of drags on traps and snares.
- Require disclosures and warning signs for traps and snares on block management areas.
- Revise wolf trapping season dates to January 2 - Feb 28 to try to avoid incidental trapping of grizzlies and upland game bird dogs.
- Prohibit the use of snares on high use areas of wintering elk and deer.
- Apply setback of minimum 150' to all public roads for traps and snares.
- Require trapping warning signage at trailheads and high use recreational areas.
- Establish 1 wolf quota or closure of wolf season in units over elk management objectives, where elk shoulder seasons occur, where chronic wasting disease has been detected.
- Maintain a maximum quota of 1 wolf in units adjacent to national parks. Overage comes off the following year/s or adjacent applicable wolf management units.
- Allow 1 wolf per license.
- Present the hide and skull of all trapped or shot wolves in an unfrozen condition to designated FWP.
- Prohibit the use of bait and night hunting of wolves.
- Require the reporting of all non-target catches.
- Require annual reimbursement reports (SB267) for wolf trapping and hunting.

Dear Sir/Madam;

I'm a life-long resident of the state, and appreciate the many interests within the hunting, fishing, and recreation of the state. I do strongly believe, however, the "humane factor" MUST take precedence within all those interests. The animals and environment need our protection, not rampant and cruel opportunism. Dear FWP Commissioners:

I am in opposition to the increased otter quotas on the basis:

- Otter pelts averaging $15 failed to even sell in the largest fur auction in 2020.
- Montana otter populations are based on harvest reports and anecdotal information.
- Otter harvest reports provided by FWP are inconsistent in numbers.
- Passage of the increased otter quota equals the approximate trapping total currently for the entire state.
- Montana has been declared in a state of emergency for drought. Temperatures are up and water is down statewide. Wildlife are struggling. Otters will be dying and should not be subjected to increased mortality through increased trapping.
- The otter trapping season, Nov 1 - April 15, runs concurrent to periods of gestation and dependent young. The collateral damage from trapping is ignored.
- River otter are an indicator species of water pollution. Their presence or absence is noteworthy and should be respected not exploited.
- River otter are commonly caught in traps set for beaver. Trapping season on beaver runs 5 1/2 - 9 months out of the year. The incidental catches are not factored in and do not come off the next year's quota.
- The majority of incidental trapped otter that were reported were from Region 1 and Region 2.
- Annually, less than 60 trappers kill otters in Region 1 and Region 2. Several dozen trappers should not be held in charge of the fate of otters who under the public trust belong to all U.S. citizens.
- FWP has failed to delineate whether the otter proposals apply to region or districts 1 and 2. There is a difference.

As noted above – there is no ecologically sound reason for increased otter kill. Please – I urge you to not increase the quotas.

Sincerely,

I oppose increased trapping of river otters. You want to increase the quota in Region 1 by 43%, and in Region 2 by 60%. Also, you want to increase the river otter quota from 3 to 4 per trapper. There is no valid reason to do this. The rationale seems to be that trappers want to kill more otters and that is the true purpose of your organization, to make sure trappers get their way.

Whether trappers like it or not, fur is on the way out. Designers and stores have realized consumers care about animals, so they have stopped designing and selling fur products. Otter pelts failed to sell in the fur auctions in 2020. It is not going to be better now. Otter population reports are based on harvest reports and anecdotal information. The reports provided are inconsistent in numbers.

Montana has declared a state of emergency for drought. Temperatures are up and the water supply is down. Otters will be dying anyway and should not be subjected to increased trapping. Furthermore, the otter trapping season of November 1 to April 15 runs concurrent to gestation and raising dependent young otters. The collateral damage of trapping is not accounted for. River otters are also sometimes trapped in beaver traps. These incidental catches are not factored in and so do not come off the next year's quota. Most incidental trapping of otters came from Region 1 or 2, where you want to greatly increase the quota. This is wrong.

River otters are an indicator species of water pollution. Their presence or absence is noteworthy and should be respected, not exploited.

The vast majority of the population does not trap. They care about wildlife, not trappers.

Dear Commission,

How can you justify increasing Otter harvest by so much without solid population numbers to justify the decision? I've lived in and spent a lot of time in Montana's outdoors. It used to be a regular occurrence to see Otters, but over time they've become more and more rare. You can't ignore that a huge part of our economy is from residents and visitors wanting to see wildlife in the wild. It makes no sense to allow such a small percentage of Montana's population take so much wildlife to the detriment of so many more. I hope you're preparing to have to manage a large number of species as threatened or endangered with the policies that you're implementing.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Please Reject Extended Elk Hunting Shoulder Season
Date: Saturday, July 17, 2021 3:39:02 PM

Dear Commissioners:

I am writing to respectfully ask that you abide by the promises you made to Montana hunters, and the general public, and reject the recommendation to permanently extend the elk hunting shoulder season in the 18 designated hunting districts.

Shoulder seasons were never meant to replace the harvest during Montana's archery and rifle seasons. Our state's hunters and the general public believe in fair chase and ethical hunting. They do not support the scenario of elk being chased in deep snow and bitter cold while they're trying to survive having made it through five months of being hunted. Additionally, shoulder seasons mean fewer elk on public lands, more leasing of private lands, and de facto game farming of our public elk for private interests to profit off of it. This does not fit with the ethical standards and culture of hunting in Montana. Finally, we need to see the data on whether these hunts are opening up more hunting access in the archery and rifle seasons, when we need the most elk harvest to effectively manage them, including by getting elk back onto public lands. We can't set our hunting seasons blindly, without data and science grounding our decisions.

For these reasons and more, I again ask that you reject extending the elk hunting shoulder season.

Thank you for your consideration.

To the Montana Fish, Wildlife, and Parks Commission:

We are Ravalli County residents who oppose the proposed increase in quotas for otter trapping. We own a piece of property that includes over a mile of Bitterroot River frontage. We have several wildlife cameras on this land, including one that points at an otter latrine. Among our favorite photos are those that show otters frequenting this area, and among our most interesting and enjoyable wildlife sightings are those of otters frolicking in the river. Although we get otter photos and see otters occasionally, both are rare. Our impression is that otter populations are low and not increasing, making us question the rationale for increasing otter quotas, which is based on other anecdotal evidence. Especially in a time when otter pelts have very little value and otters are subject to increased stress due to climate change-influenced drought, heat, and low water, we think that the proposed changes are ill-advised. Please reject the proposed increases in otter quotas unless scientific studies indicate that otter populations are increasing and need to be checked.

I understand the Commission extended the public comment period through July 26. Here are my comments:

I am against the extended wolf season, the unlimited killing of wolves, and the raising of kill quotas on other animals, such as otters.

The State has no business supporting the brutish trapping hobby of the less than 1/2 percent of the state population when the other 99.5+ percent enjoy seeing wildlife in natural habitat thriving and moving freely. Nor should the State be in the business of supporting unethical hunting procedures. If a hunter is unable to get a kill using traditional fair chase means during traditional hunting season constraints, he/she does not deserve the right to hunt.

None of these changes in the hunting and trapping laws are based on anything remotely science driven.

I search for wildlife, too; but with a camera. I am “over the moon” when I spot a wolf, an otter, a grizzly, or any of our beautiful, precious wildlife running footloose and free. I take pictures of the animal, and we both go our separate ways. I bet most Montanans and most visitors to Montana share my sentiments.

I bet further that none of these same folks want to see an animal suffering in a trap. If domestic animals were maimed and tortured like animals are treated by trappers, the perpetrator would be arrested.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Public Comment Wolf 2021 proposals
Date: Sunday, July 18, 2021 5:32:44 PM

Dear Chair Robinson, Commissioners,

Please find highlighted below what we are requesting of the Commission for the 2021 wolf proposals.

We spent considerable research and outreach to experts in order to come up with them.

We base these primarily on what is to likely unfold beyond wolves. All kinds of animals will be trapped and snared including rare, threatened, and protected species. With increased trapping seasons and the use of snares, more pets, plus livestock, will also fall victim.

From public record in Idaho, 813 wolves were trapped as well as 620 non-target species of which 269 were released alive and 351 were killed. Idaho permits the snaring of wolves. Alaska Fish & Game biologist estimate that in areas with heavy trapping pressure, wolf snares catch up to 1% of the moose annually. According to them, most moose caught in wolf snares die either at the capture site or subsequent to release. A Canadian trapper on a trapping Tv series, shared how exposed jugular veins and carotid arteries are on a lynx and that is why snares are the ultimate tool to kill them.

With the many newcomers to Montana and increased outdoor recreation, liberalizing trapping of wolves is a disaster waiting to happen. A minimum of 23 dogs were snared in Montana between 9/2012 - 2/2015, with at least 2 killed. The same bait and lures for wolves attracts dogs. The 9" law spread, 10 lb., leghold traps used for wolves take someone weighing ~ 200 lbs. to open or carrying a special tool setting device and even then.

Think, what happens when someone comes across a trapped grizzly or grizzly cub?

Snaring is said to be an art as well as a science. Snaring is also cheap, indiscriminate, easy, and easily, deadly. However, there are some things that can be done to help mitigate what otherwise will happen with the required allowance to snare wolves. Simply limiting snares for wolves to private land is unacceptable. Roughly 2/3 of Montana is private land. The wildlife though does not belong to the landowner.

Snares are already legal year-round in Montana and can be used even without the purchase of a $28 trapping license or taking the newly required trapper education. Would those, such as myself, who have already completed wolf trapping certification, be allowed to set countless deadly snares for wolves? Note, snares are acclaimed the number one killer of most trapped non-target wildlife, already, according to FWP reports.

The evidence shows those after wolves are having no trouble trapping and killing wolves in Montana. Each year another record is set. These are the wolves we know about. FWP Wildlife Chief, Ken McDonald, publicly told the legislature there was no informational evidence wolves were responsible for decreasing elk populations. Few hunting units even fall within lower elk management objectives. Big game hunter success remains reputedly high in Montana. CWD has also increased including in NW Montana. The opponents to the wolf bills overwhelmingly dominated in number and numerous testimonies and countless written factual reports were submitted. Opposition included wildlife biologists, former FWP scientists, and Fish & Wildlife Commissioners.

Yet, here we are.

Some things perhaps you cannot do, others you can.

We urge you to implement the following for the 2021 Wolf Season:

- Require 24-hour trap checks. According to the findings, the longer an animal is trapped or snared the less likely they are to survive even after release. The Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies recommends traps be checked at least daily and no more be set than can be done so.
- Prohibit the use of snares on public lands.
- Obtain written permission from landowner for the use of snares.
- Require wolf trapping certification inclusive of snaring for anyone trapping for wolves.
- Require snares have diverters, relaxing lock, 275 lb. rated breakaway, a stop for a minimum loop size of 10", and the bottom of the loop a minimum of 18" above the surface.
- Limit the number of wolves who can be snared to one per certified trapper.
- Limit the number of snares and leghold traps a trapper can set.
- Require trappers keep maps of their snare locations. This helps with their snare removal at the end of season, or quotas, and for law enforcement.
- Prohibit power snares and the use of drags on traps and snares.
- Require disclosures and warning signs for traps and snares on block management areas.
- Revise wolf trapping season dates to January 2 - Feb 28 to try to avoid incidental trapping of grizzlies and upland game bird hunting dogs.
- Prohibit the use of snares on high use areas of wintering elk and deer.
- Apply setback of minimum 150' to all public roads for traps and snares.
- Require trapping warning signage at trailheads and high use recreational areas.
- Establish 1 wolf quota or closure of wolf season in units over elk management objectives, where elk shoulder seasons occur, where chronic wasting disease has been detected.

Maintain a maximum quota of 1 wolf in units adjacent to national parks. Overage comes off the following year/s or adjacent applicable wolf management units.

- Allow 1 wolf per license.
- Present the hide and skull of all trapped or shot wolves in an unfrozen condition to designated FWP.
- Prohibit the use of bait and night hunting of wolves. This is unethical sportsmanship and sets up a bad precedence.
- Require the reporting of all non-target catches.
- Require annual reimbursement reports (SB267) for wolf trapping and hunting.

Please let me know if you have any questions or seek the reports, findings, that help substantiate our recommendations for the Commission.

We hope you will do what is right and just for Montana, our wildlife, and for public safety.

As a former employee of FWP and a certified wildlife biologist I wanted to comment on the shoulder seasons.

Managing wildlife is about managing animal populations and providing recreational opportunities. While shoulder seasons make sense for lowering elk numbers, it assists landowners in leasing and locking the public out of recreational opportunities. Yes, cow hunts can be made available, but the fact is that extending the shoulder seasons plays into the hands of those that are de facto game farming our public elk.

The fact that shoulder seasons have even been implemented is an effort to placate those who only allow the public to hunt cows and lease out access to our public bull elk. Don't go farther down this road and extend shoulder seasons, since it will further make Montana just a place where only the rich can hunt. The balance you have now with shoulder seasons to placate the "game farmer" ranchers is more than enough. The public deserves some consideration in this situation.

Thanks for your consideration of these comments.

- Shoulder seasons aren't meant to replace the harvest during Montana's archery and rifle seasons. Hunters support fair chase and ethical hunting. Chasing elk in deep snows and bitter cold when they're just trying to survive is not supported by hunters, or the general public.
- We need to see the data on whether these hunts are opening up more hunting access in the archery and rifle seasons, when we need the most elk harvest to effectively manage them, including by getting elk back onto public lands.
- This was never the deal that FWP made with the hunters of Montana, and it's wrong to extend these hunts another month after elk have already been hunted for five months.
- Shoulder seasons mean fewer elk on public lands, more leasing of private lands and de facto game farming of our public elk for private interests to profit off of it.

How any state can support the brutality of trapping is beyond me. It is absolutely barbaric but in hopes this commission has some type of regard for wildlife, consider the following:

- Swift fox are increasingly threatened especially now with drought and climate change. The trapping season on this 5-7 pound imperiled species, which are trapped and killed for notoriety purposes, must cease before it is too late or they will wind up on the ESA. They were wiped out before in Montana.
- Beaver need to be respected and protected more than ever. They are critical for water resources, wildlife habitat, agriculture, and fire mitigation.
- It is morally and scientifically reprehensible for the continuation of the unlimited and unreported trapping of beaver for 5 1/2 - 9 months out of the year in Montana, with most of the state being the latter.
- The checkoff for non-game proposals is devoid of species who FWP reports have not been seen, i.e. spotted skunk, porcupine, and listed species of concern, swift fox. Wildlife management needs to be all inclusive of species. All are interconnected. What happens to one impacts the other.
- The public's safety continues to be ignored and the wishes and whims of licensed trappers', < 1% of the population, take precedence. This is a setup for disaster and for lawsuits.
- Per the Montana 2021 legislature and FWP Director Worsech's assurance, trapping of dogs would be properly assessed through Montana FWP Citizen's Advisory Councils. There is no evidence this is coming to fruition.

Dear Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission:

Dogs have been killed in traps on our public lands. It is wrong that fewer than one percent of Montanans trap, yet they hold sway over trapping policy on public lands on which the other ninety-nine percent of us recreate with our dogs and children. At 52%, Montana has the second largest dog ownership population of any state. Public safety and dog protection is important to Montanans, so it is time to set up the Montana FWP Citizen's Advisory Council.

Secondly, regarding the check-off for non-game proposals- all species need to be on the list. Besides porcupines and spotted skunks, the swift fox is already listed as a species of concern. Even our FWP states there is no market value for this house cat-sized fox. The last census showed fewer than 200 of them in our state. They have already been exterminated once and reintroduced. A pelt is worth about $7 and the cost to reintroduce is from $1,000 to $5,000 per fox. It is foolish and expensive to allow that to happen again.

Lastly, evidence is increasingly validating the importance of beaver in our ecosystems. Their dams retain water in the surrounding lands. When they dig into the mud they slow water evaporation. (This becomes especially important during times of drought and on arid lands). The ponds they build can even break down toxins like pesticides. They also help with fire mitigation. They actually replenish fresh water wetlands. In Nevada's Suzie Creek, they single-handedly transformed the desert to an oasis that now supports animals ranging from the sandhill crane to mule deer. The continued unlimited and unreported trapping of beaver for up to nine months out of each year goes against science and ethics.

I came to Montana in 1968 as a young man for the same reasons many of us have come; for the beauty for the wilds, and for the wildlife. If Montana becomes known as a state that promotes the barbarous activities allowed by the recent laws passed by our apparently uncaring legislature, it will do nothing for the state's good name, not to mention our economy. If you don't think it will matter, I suggest you think again. Many people will deliberately steer their trips and their tourist dollars away from Montana if they know about what passes for "sport" here. I know this because I'll be one of the people broadcasting the news. If we're that kind of people, then we should pay a heavy price for it. The thing is, we're not that kind of people. Montana FWP,

There has been quite a bit of media on MT's planned gray wolf extermination program. Before the slaughter begins, it would be wise to consider the optics on the mass slaughter of wildlife in this day and age and how difficult it is to hide things like that with the far-reaching presence of social media. MT stands lose credibility, acceptability, and several tens of millions of dollars in Pittman-Robertson funding if the state proceeds with the mass killing of wolves.

It would be wise also to consider the North American Model of Wildlife Conservation which states that animals should only be killed for a legitimate purpose. The capricious extermination of wolves clearly fails any ethical justification under the NAM. Professional wildlife managers must stand up for their profession and not be passive victims of corrupt, incompetent legislators.

If this wolf slaughter is allowed to occur it will be well-documented and will be a permanent stain on the state of Montana and the Department of Fish, Wildlife & Parks.

I oppose the proposal of Montana State Rep. Paul Fielder and State Sen. Bob Brown to eliminate trapping setbacks from public roads and trails in Sanders and Lincoln Counties. Traps do not distinguish among the animals they trap -- your dog, a badger, a wolf or bear. Trapped, the animals dies in agony of thirst and hunger. Setbacks traditionally allow the public to enjoy Montana's public trails and roads without danger. Eliminating these traditional setbacks eliminates safe public access in favor of exclusive use by trappers. It's a very bad idea.

Trapping should be banned and this so called hunter should be in jail for animal cruelty. These wolf trappers make all hunters look bad. There is no Fair Chase here...only animal cruelty. This violates sportsmans ethics.

How many wolves are tormented, tortured and photographed while still alive by some sick human? These are highly intellegent animals, our dogs are direct descendants of wolves Stop wolf trapping now. Your hand picked commissioners do not represent the majority of Montana citizens.

Shame on you.

Thank-you for your time.

Montana is a beautiful, wildlife rich state, worthy of excellent stewardship of the land and creatures who call it home. Trapping and snaring belong to the 18th century. Power & self indulgence blind people to right and wrong. At the very least modify your trap/snare rules until your consciousness further evolves. When you ignore pain & suffering of God's creatures, you're not there yet.

Date: Monday, July 19, 2021 1:36:00 PM

I am writing with suggestions regarding HB 224 and 225, and SB 267 and 314.

The use of snares is inhumane and I ask you to prohibit their use on OUR public lands and in areas where deer and elk gather in winter. Also please require written permission from landowners for the use of snares. Block management areas need disclosures and warning signs.

It is imperative to require 24 hour trap checks to curb the suffering of wolves and other animals that will be trapped. Also trappers need to map where their snares are. They must report non-target catches so you can keep tabs on what else is being killed in traps.

Please require that snares have diverters, stops for a minimum loop of 10", bottom loop 18" above the ground, a relaxing lock, and a 275 lb breakaway. Please prohibit power snares and drags.

We need 150-foot setbacks from our roads for traps and snares. We need trapping warning signs at trailheads and recreational areas- which is where I have had friends' dogs die in traps.

Please consider limiting the number of wolves snared to one per trapper and limit the number of snares and leg holds per trapper, and one wolf per license.

There should be a protected area around our National Parks.

Night hunting and baiting is antithetical to Montana's fair chase and should never be allowed.

Many of us come from families of hunters and anglers who also care deeply about our wildlife and resources. We feel these bills are unethical and hope you will use due diligence in deciding how to proceed and limit their negative impacts on public lands and wildlife.

Thank you,

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Wolf Proposals - public comment
Date: Sunday, July 18, 2021 2:12:47 PM

Dear FWP Commissioners:

Regarding Montana Wolf Proposals I urge the Commission to:

- Require 24 hour trap checks.
- Prohibit the use of snares on public lands.
- Obtain written permission from landowner for the use of snares.
- Require wolf trapping certification inclusive of snaring for anyone trapping for wolves.
- Require snares have diverters, relaxing lock, 275 lb. rated breakaway, a stop for a minimum loop size of 10", and the bottom of the loop a minimum of 18" above the surface.
- Limit the number of wolves who can be snared to one per certified trapper.
- Limit the number of snares and leg hold traps a trapper can set.
- Require trappers keep maps of their snare locations.
- Prohibit power snares and the use of drags on traps and snares.
- Require disclosures and warning signs for traps and snares on block management areas.
- Revise wolf trapping season dates to January 2 - Feb 28 to try to avoid incidental trapping of grizzlies and upland game bird dogs.
- Prohibit the use of snares on high use areas of wintering elk and deer.
- Apply setback of minimum 150' to all public roads for traps and snares.
- Require trapping warning signage at trailheads and high use recreational areas.
- Establish 1 wolf quota or closure of wolf season in units over elk management objectives, where elk shoulder seasons occur, where chronic wasting disease has been detected.
- Maintain a maximum quota of 1 wolf in units adjacent to national parks. Overage comes off the following year/s or adjacent applicable wolf management units.
- Allow 1 wolf per license.
- Present the hide and skull of all trapped or shot wolves in an unfrozen condition to designated FWP.
- Prohibit the use of bait and night hunting of wolves.
- Require the reporting of all non-target catches.
- Require annual reimbursement reports (SB267) for wolf trapping and hunting.

The above actions would help to ensure that wolves would not be excessively and needlessly killed and that other animals would not be killed or harmed as noted above. As FWP espouses – it is our duty to be stellar and thoughtful stewards of wildlife.

FWP Commission,

As a long time, Montana resident, I have several comments regarding proposed changes to wolf harvesting in the state:

- 1) Decisions about trapping quotas need to be based on accurate science. If we've learned anything from history, it should be that indiscriminate taking of wildlife often results in a need for heavy and restrictive management later.
- 2) Trapping is not fair chase or ethical as most outdoorsmen understand the terms, so at least there should be a minimum 24-hour trap check required. For the same reason indiscriminate snares should not be used.
- 3) Why are you trying to harvest so many wolves when we have growing problems of too many elk in certain areas an increasing Chronic Wasting Disease etc.
- 4) Wolf season should be limited to Jan & Feb, require training and involve the reporting of all catches so that accurate numbers can be maintained for future decision making.

Thank You

To: <fwpdistrict4@gmail.com>

Commissioner Lesley Robinson

I will try to be brief in my comments. I am a resident trapper and hunter in Montana and have been a resident since I was born 70 years ago.

Regarding the wolf issues:

I have known from the start that snaring would be a tool to use in wolf management. I would really hope that before just opening it up to all that there would be a comprehensive wolf snaring education class in effect. We have snaring of other animals, but the wolf snares have potential to cause some real problems in uneducated hands. There are ways of addressing the by catch issue, but without an education format the potential for disaster that will affect all snaring could be extreme. I feel strongly about the education issue and have stated many times since the inception of the wolf regs', that once snaring became a law that we need to educate trappers about their proper usage. One regulation that I believe you could address is the breakaway on the wolf snare. Many, not all, of the trappers that I have gotten info from about use of snares in Alaska and Canada, recommend a 750-pound breakaway. I personally feel that 1000 pounds is too much.

You have Representative Fielders' info on other aspects of the wolf issue and for the most part, I agree with him.

I am in agreement with the proposal to increase the otter harvest in both proposed districts and all of the other trappers that I have personally talked to also agreed. I could give you a long dissertation on that subject also, as I have been observing the increase in otter for over 35 years. However, now is not the time.

I wish you the best, as I know that these are hot issues with the wolf.

Date: Monday, July 26, 2021 1:21:23 PM

Dear Montana Fish & Wildlife Commission,

Montana already has aggressive hunting and trapping seasons for wolves — and its wolf population is already decreasing. The state doesn't need to expand the seasons or approve new tools for killing wolves.

For example, I oppose rules allowing baiting wolves and killing wolves at night because they violate fair-chase ethics and increase the risk of killing other wildlife and even family dogs.

I also oppose increasing the bag limit for wolves — a single hunter shouldn't be able to wipe out an entire pack of wolves. And hunters should be required to obtain one license for each wolf killed.

I don't support any form of snaring, and I ask you to ban snaring on public lands and limit snaring elsewhere as much as possible.

These common-sense measures will help save the lives of grizzly bears, Canada lynx and other wildlife, as well as companion animals.

Thank you for considering my comment.

Date: Monday, July 26, 2021 4:18:48 PM

Dear Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks (FWP) Commissioners:

I urge the Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks (FWP) Commissioners to vote AGAINST the proposed new wolf-hunting regulations.

These outrageous regulations would not only greatly increase the numbers of animals and "non-target" animals slaughtered but also expand some of the most brutal and vile practices like snare trapping, night hunting and use of baits to lure wolves into gunshots.

All this so landowners and hunting outfitters can make more money out of killing innocent animals and think there will be more elk and deer to make money killing them, too.

Even though a neighbour, I will NOT be visiting Montana ever again if the regulations pass. I will make sure everybody I know, knows about the savagery with which Montana treats innocent wild animals.

By the way, the Commissioners are talking about "harvesting" as if the hunters and trappers went out there to pick up some lettuce.

You are discussing increasing the barbaric KILLING of sentient, thinking, feeling, living animals who value their children, their parents, their groups, their societies, their lives, their wildness, their freedom.

Wolves are a keystone species. Without wolves, ecosystems cannot thrive.

Studies have shown the the presence of wolves has a trickle-down effect, increasing biodiversity in animal AND plant species.

The arrogance, greed and imbecility of humans "managing" (controlling) Nature has a heavy price to pay. Let Nature find balance and harmony. She alone knows what, how, when to do.

Of course by the time we "get It" it will be too late - for us, too.

I urge the Montana, Fish, Wildlife and Parks Commissioners to have the wisdom and backbone necessary to vote AGAINST the proposed new wolf-hunting regulations.

My wife and I typically make at least 8-10 trips per year to Yellowstone for one specific purpose: to see wild wolves. Please do not exceed the current quota of 1 wolf in the management units adjoining Yellowstone National Park.

Require that traps be checked daily to minimize unnecessary suffering.

Do not allow snares on public lands where they may inflict injury or death to pets or sporting dogs.

Require that there be at least a 150' setback for traps and snares from public roads.

Require that those who set snares for wolves are properly trained.

Require that those who set snares for wolves report to the MFWP non-target species, including domestic animals, that are caught.

Please consider the wishes of non-consumptive wildlife enthusiasts when establishing these requirements. Montana's wildlife belongs to all of our citizens not only to those harvest wild animals for sport or profit.

Date: Monday, July 26, 2021 2:10:28 PM

The Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission has a long history of basing wildlife management decisions on science, public safety, and the Montana Constitution's public trust doctrine.

You are well aware that snares are a very inexpensive way to trap, and allowing their use will increase the number of snares on our lands. Montanans cannot afford the loss of horses, hunting hounds, working dogs, livestock, and wildlife that this increased use of snares could cause if not properly regulated.

In any case, it is counterproductive to good management to take more wolves. Wildlife biologists have learned that wolves evolved as a self-regulating apex predator, with intricate social structures and breeding behaviors. When we kill wolves, we disrupt pack behavior, leading to an increase in wolves, and increased loss of livestock.

Biologists also tell us that wolves are the best defense against highly contagious Chronic Wasting Disease. Wolves take out the sick animals, reducing the spread, and wolf scat cannot spread the disease.

Wolves also restore riparian zones. Without them, erosion and grazing destroy plants, leading to more erosion, as well as less food and water for livestock. Healthy riparian zones mean healthy land and water for livestock and farming.

Considering these facts, I urge you to make the following common-sense revisions for the 2021 wolf season: (1) require 24-hour trap checks; (2) prohibit the use of snares on public lands; (3) mandate that trappers obtain written permission from landowners for the use of snares; (4) require wolf trapping certification for anyone trapping wolves; (5) require snares to have diverters, relaxing lock, 275 lb. rated breakaway, a stop for a minimum loop size of 10", and the bottom of the loop a minimum of 18" above the surface; (6) limit the number of wolves who can be snared to one per certified trapper; (7) limit the number of snares and leghold traps a trapper can set; (8) require trappers keep maps of their snare locations; (9) prohibit power snares and the use of drags on traps and snares; (10) require disclosures and warning signs for traps and snares on block management areas; (11) revise wolf trapping season dates to January 2-Feb 28, to try to avoid incidental trapping of grizzlies and upland game bird dogs; (12) prohibit the use of snares in high use areas of wintering elk and deer; (13) apply setback of minimum 150 feet to all public roads for traps and snares; (14) require trapping warning signage at trail heads and high use recreational areas; (15) establish one wolf quota or closure of the wolf season in units over elk management objectives, where elk shoulder seasons occur, where chronic wasting disease has been detected; (16) allow one wolf per license; (17) require presentation of hide and skull of all trapped or shot wolves in an unfrozen condition to designated FWP; (18) prohibit the use of bait and night hunting of wolves; (19) require the reporting of all non-target catches; (20) require annual reimbursement reports (SB267) for wolf trapping and hunting.

Thank you for your excellent work in the past, and your consideration of these common-sense measures.

Dear Wildlife Commission,

The cruel, unnecessary, politically-motivated, and anti-democratic methods of wolf management recently adopted by the MT legislature are setting state wildlife management back 150 years and giving MT state biologists a national black eye.

Bring professionalism back to Montana state wildlife management.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Wolf & river otter legislation
Date: Monday, July 26, 2021 3:46:59 PM

The desire of Montana's legislators to reduce wolf and otter populations to non-sustainable levels through an abundance of pro-trapping laws is unfathomable. Montana boasts of its wilderness as the last, best place. Wilderness is the only habitat available to large predators, critical contributors to a healthy ecosystem (note Sunday's Missoulian review of mustang overpopulation due to loss of predation). If Montana's wildlife are to survive within a well-balanced ecosystem, these new laws must be revised in favor of all non-human species. I'm certain you've heard several valuable suggestions for favorable changes.

It should be clear to all of you that enjoyment of wildlife is a primary reason for living in Montana. For a few, that means killing wildlife for their heads or hides to hang on the wall. For most of us, that means seeing a herd of elk cross your pasture or hearing a wolf or coyote howl at night. If trappers and the hideous laws they embrace were removed from the equation, a balance between predator and prey would exist as it has for centuries. Current legal trends aim to destroy that balance and in an indiscriminate manner, since traps and snares can catch and kill any living thing.

I plead with you to require restrictions that limit the cruelty and torture to any bird or animal just trying to survive on a rapidly changing planet.

I, Dave Pauli, am drafting this letter as a past citizen volunteer on the 1999 and 2019 MFWP trapping advisory committees and a past president of a statewide trapping association. The last legislature while attempting to loosen all trapping and predator protection regulations really did not act in the best interest of our wildlife resources or science backed management.

We (me, my wife and adult daughter(a UM trained wildlife biologist)) truly hope the FWP Commission can apply some logic and science to the proposed regulations. Others will bring many sound suggestions to the commission that should probably be supported. But I am going to concentrate on one issue... wolf snares and snaring.

As I stated in legislative testimony the Allowing of using the Bigger wolf cable size , with Bigger loop diameters and set Bigger distances from the ground is going to cause BIGGER problems for all wildlife and livestock. Snaring is a historical poaching tool and snares of any size are non-selective and could quietly kill my dog while I am a few dozen feet away searching for it. But wolf snares can go the same to deer heads or elk and cattle noses. There are a high risk device on the landscape that we simply do not need.

We therefore support the commission on restricting all snares especially on public lands and especially to have a limit on the total number of these cheap devices that a licensed trapper can litter the landscape with. But all the below suggestions would help to minimize and mitigate the problems these aircraft cable devices will inflict to any moving creature.

- > Prohibit the use of snares on public lands
- > Limit the number of snares and leghold traps a trapper can set.
- > The commission should designate TRAP FREE Zones on state lands in every District
- > Require disclosures and warning signs for traps and snares on block management areas.

- Obtain written permission from landowner for the use of snares.
- Require wolf trapping certification inclusive of snaring for anyone trapping for wolves.
- Require snares have diverters, relaxing lock, 275 lb. rated breakaway, a stop for a minimum loop size of 10", and the bottom of the loop a minimum of 18" above the surface.
- Limit the number of wolves who can be snared to one per certified trapper.
- Prohibit power snares and the use of drags on traps and snares.
- Revise wolf trapping season dates to January 2 - Feb 28 to try to avoid incidental trapping of grizzlies and upland game bird dogs.
- Prohibit the use of snares on high use areas of wintering elk and deer.
- Apply setback of minimum 150' to all public roads for traps and snares.

Dear FWP,

I would like to take this opportunity to weigh in on the upcoming 2021 wolf-hunting season. As you must be aware, public comments and testimony against the wolf-hunting bills this last legislative session far outweighed those comments & testimony given in favor of the hunts. That said, the bills passed despite widespread public opposition. Already, Montana is being viewed as a dangerous killing field where no animal--wild or domestic, predator or game animal--is safe. There are several things that FWP could do to mitigate potential, foreseeable damage and the realistic threats that wolf snaring poses to the public, wildlife, and domestic animals. At the very least, here are some things FWP could do within the bounds of the new law and to address Montana citizens' concerns:

1. Prohibit the use of snares on public lands, especially within recreation areas, along trails, and on elk & deer wintering grounds, thus minimizing the danger to humans and other wildlife. Leased public lands (grazing lease lands, for instance) do not provide a legal basis for unfettered use, merely allow the rancher to run cattle on those lands. Thus, leases should be treated as the public lands they are and snares & traps prohibited.
2. Require wolf trapping certification specifically for snaring for anyone trapping for wolves, and limit the number of wolves to one per CERTIFIED trapper.
3. Require 24-hour trap checks and require each snare and trap be mapped and the map submitted as public record.
4. Limit the number of snares and leghold traps a trapper can set, AND require snares have diverters, relaxing lock, 275 lb. rated breakaway, a stop for a minimum loop size of 10", and the bottom of the loop a minimum of 18" above the surface. Prohibit power snares, the use of drags on traps, night hunting, helicopter hunting, and use of bait.
5. Obtain written permission from landowner for the use of snares and require trappers to keep maps of their snare locations, which they should provide to the private landowner.
6. Require visible, posted disclosures and warning signs anywhere traps and snares are used and apply a setback of minimum 150' to all public roads for traps and snares. Enforce the setback and warning sign requirements.
7. Establish 1 wolf quota or closure of the wolf season in units over elk management objectives, where elk shoulder seasons occur, where chronic wasting disease has been detected.
8. Limit wolf trapping season dates to January 2 - Feb 28 to try to avoid incidental trapping of grizzlies and upland game bird dogs.

9. Prohibit wolf hunting in units adjacent to national parks and on federal lands.
10. Require the reporting of all non-target catches and establish a database to monitor non-target kills & catches, with this information fully disclosed and accessible to the public.
11. Require that all trappers present the hide and skull of all trapped or shot wolves in an unfrozen condition to designated FWP.
12. Require annual reimbursement reports (SB267) for wolf trapping and hunting. These, too, should be posted where the public can access them.
13. Impose fines and loss of license on trappers who do not comply with safety precautions, certification, signage, location, etc.

Remember: the public, as measured by the overwhelming volume of legislative testimony against the new wolf-kill bills, did NOT support wolf snaring, an expanded trapping season, etc. Many of those who testified are hunters, people who regularly use Montana's public lands for outdoor recreation and business, and people who live adjacent to public lands. Public safety is a legitimate concern, as are those concerns for the safety of other wildlife. Without some measurable, transparent, stringent specifications (like those listed above) to minimize the dangers that snaring and trapping pose, we will have a killing free-for-all on our hands and Montana FWP will be the agency held accountable. As it is, these new laws are creating a lot of controversy and more problems than the wolves ever did or would. Montanans are not happy about this and FWP must, as much as it possibly can, be extremely cautious about how the new laws are implemented and in making sure all kills are recorded and made public.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

Hello

I absolutely oppose the new proposed wolf hunting & trapping regulations!

Your committee is heavy on pro hunting and trapping members. Is that fair? It should represent ALL Montanans.

We live in a world we have almost destroyed and yet we continue to decimate species for idiotic reasons (who truly “needs” fur?). The minority of people who are trappers are like the tail wagging the dog. People come to MT to see wildlife ALIVE not cruelly caught in traps.

Try joining the year 2021 and not 1940; time changes everything!

I saw a sign at the Missoula Airport warning tourists there may be traps and snares near the trails. Wow—who would want to hike these trails with their children and what a terrible message about Montana!!

Please:

- Require 24-hour trap checks.
- Prohibit the use of snares on public lands.
- Obtain written permission from landowner for the use of snares.
- Require wolf trapping certification inclusive of snaring for anyone trapping for wolves.
- Require snares have diverters, relaxing lock, 275 lb. rated breakaway, a stop for a minimum loop size of 10", and the bottom of the loop a minimum of 18" above the surface.
- Limit the number of wolves who can be snared to one per certified trapper.
- Limit the number of snares and leghold traps a trapper can set.
- Require trappers keep maps of their snare locations.
- Prohibit power snares and the use of drags on traps and snares.
- Require disclosures and warning signs for traps and snares on block management areas.
- Revise wolf trapping season dates to January 2 - Feb 28 to try to avoid incidental trapping of grizzlies and upland game bird dogs.
- Prohibit the use of snares on high use areas of wintering elk and deer.
- Apply setback of minimum 150' to all public roads for traps and snares.
- Require trapping warning signage at trail heads and high use recreational areas.
- Establish 1 wolf quota or closure of the wolf season in units over elk management objectives, where elk shoulder seasons occur, where chronic wasting disease has been detected.
- Maintain a maximum quota of 1 wolf in units adjacent to national parks. Overage comes off the following year/s or adjacent applicable wolf management units.

- Allow 1 wolf per license.
- Present the hide and skull of all trapped or shot wolves in an unfrozen condition to designated FWP.
- Prohibit the use of bait and night hunting of wolves.
- Require the reporting of all non-target catches.
- Require annual reimbursement reports (SB267) for wolf trapping and hunting

Although wolf harvests may be necessary for good wolf management, I don't think trapping and/or snaring is a humane way to harvest wolves. The practice inflicts great pain and suffering on the wolves and is sure to entrap other animals, both wild and domestic.

What is with this continual and persistent obsession in devising ways for hunters and others to trap, snare, and kill wolves! Enough is enough with these wolf-haters and trappers!! It is very apparent to all that hunters and trappers of wolves, and their never-ending obsession against wolves need something, ANYTHING else to occupy (amuse) themselves in their lives on earth than thinking (obsessing) cruel, and vengeful ways to trap, snare, you name it, ways to kill off wolves of Montana! Wolves are a vital part of Montana's natural ecosystem. You destroy one animal and another or more will "take over" and unbalance Montana's WONDERFUL, and PRECIOUS LAST BEST PLACE animal habitat and kingdom! Wake up Legislators!! Just because you, not all, but some of you hate, despise Wolves, does NOT give you the right to destroy the rest of us (the Majority mind you) who love, and admire and hold dear our extraordinary and extremely precious wildlife and it's ecosystem here in Montana!

FWP of Montana! Ya'll do a great job in trying to temper the obsessive feelings and behaviors of hunters, and trappers, and legislators (some!) who are constantly trying to eradicate wolves (among other of our very PRECIOUS wildlife) in, THE LAST BEST PLACE...our EXTRAORDINARY and BEAUTIFUL State - MONTANA!

I oppose all trapping but especially the nearly unlimited seasons on beaver and otter and the impending hunting of wolves that will drive them to near extinction once again. A 90% reduction in population will ensure that deer and elk herds will be vulnerable to disease since apex predators like wolves take out the sick and dying. Your state's unending bloodlust to kill anything that moves will keep my tourist dollars out of your state.

Do you really wish to celebrate the assertion of the Republican Party in Montana by rewriting wildlife regulations to allow, enable and encourage the inhumane slaughter of an animal species, wolves? Is this how you wish this generation of Republicanism to be remembered? "Those people who created the unchristian murder of every wolf in Montana" Is that what you wish your legacy for future generations to remember?

I know you can do better. You all are the gatekeepers of the wildlife regulations and nothing can move forward without your consent and approval. Please reconsider the unchristian and inhumane set of regulatory changes that are being proposed. We in Montana need to do better. This is not how we wish to become known to the rest of the country. Please become the voice of reason and humane treatment of our wildlife .

Wolf Hunting & Trapping Regulations Proposal 2020 – 2021 Comment

My husband and I are writing this complaint against this year's proposed revision of the hunting and harvesting of wolves in our "Treasured" State of Montana.

As you all know, in 1995, Wolves were re-introduced to Yellowstone National Park for historic and ecological purposes. Subsequently, controlling the overpopulation of elk, the furthering of their "generational health," and the recovery and rebalancing of the environment has benefited not only our elk population but other wildlife as well. I would call this a successful endeavor.

In addition to these ecological benefits, it's worth mentioning that the increasing numbers of wolf-watching visitors are contributing enormously to the coffers of numerous business enterprises in our communities that funnel tourists to and from Yellowstone. Many of these tourists base themselves in our border towns that surround the Park. Most stay for long periods of time, rent accommodations, eat at our local restaurants, shop at our stores, rent vehicles, purchase gasoline, and employ local guides and outfitters. They are also year 'round visitors that help to bolster our economies in the "off season." The proposals allowing for the hunting and trapping of increasing numbers of Wolves, if enacted, will surely diminish (if not eventually eradicate) their numbers thereby jeopardizing this vital part of our tourism industry.

We believe that the killing of these animals in increasing numbers and in such inhumane ways as trapping, will contribute to tourists seeing Montana and Montanans as barbaric for allowing such a torturous methods of execution of wildlife.

Then there is the issue of monitoring traps and trappers. To advocate that this manner of capturing and killing of an animal be permitted on private land is noteworthy. We personally know from past incidences that "self monitoring" by the trappers themselves does not work and leads to other creatures and even our pets getting killed or maimed by these archaic and cruel devices.

In summation, the arguments against these latest increases & allowances are many. These measures would absolutely do the most harm to Wolves – that being the apparent intent. But the conservation of our natural habitats should also be considered to insure the safety and well-being of all living creatures, including ourselves and our pets. And of course, the health of our local economies will surely suffer catastrophic consequences.

So we are urging you to please revisit these proposals with the above considerations in mind, and rescind or at least fundamentally alter the proposed hunting and trapping regulations for 2021 – 2022.

Sincerely,

Christina and Jerry Kahrs

I am totally against the new non-regulation of trapping on OUR public lands. To walk my dogs in any forest now I have to carry cable cutters, ropes, and a sling to carry an injured animal back to my truck. It should be FWP's mission to provide safe passage for all users of OUR public lands yet it only listens to a very small portion of those who have no respect for life and defend trapping as a tradition. Slavery was a tradition too. It was abolished and all trapping should be too.

There is a negative return when an animal is tortured, killed by any means necessary, skinned and left to rot. Wolves are instrumental in controlling CWD so FWP's solution is to kill more wolves. What is wrong with your thinking? The answer is that everything is wrong when years of research are ignored so that some trappers can indiscriminately kill OUR public wildlife for a few bucks. Nobody is surviving on pelts. This is just killing for pleasure and the public be damned.

Maybe it is time to change the name of FWP to Forget Wildlife People because you have sold out to an infinitesimal group of non-hunters. You have lost the tax paying public's respect and should do some deep soul searching to call yourselves part of humanity. There is still time to redeem yourselves and stop the killing, both wild and domestic.

Dear FWP Committee Members,

I have communicated with you previously, but just wanted to give you one more email with my concerns about the war on OUR wildlife, in particular, wolves.

I am very much against night hunting, snaring, and trophy hunting. I am against an expanded wolf season. I beg you to follow the science which shows that our elk and deer populations are at record highs, and that wolves are a vital part of a healthy eco-system to prevent overpopulation and chronic wasting disease.

We are at a critical time in animal extinction, and Montana needs to respect and protect our diverse and treasured wildlife.

I ask you to vote against the further decimation of our wolves, bears, mountain lions and other predators especially, but also otters and all fur-bearers. ALL wildlife are important members of our world, and we are all connected.

Re: Public Comment on 2021-2022 Wolf Hunting and Trapping Regulations Proposal

Dear Chair Robinson and Commissioners,

I am an attorney and represent Outdoor Heritage Coalition (“OHC”) and I write this letter on their behalf. OHC is a Montana based non-profit which supports and promotes the interests of anglers, hunters, ranchers, trappers, and other outdoor enthusiasts. It is OHC’s mission to promote and defend the outdoor traditions its members have enjoyed for generations.

The purpose of this letter is to provide OHC’s support of the Maximum wolf management option, which was adopted by the commission for public comment on June 24, 2021. OHC believes this option to be the best wolf management strategy. It will decrease the wolf population—as mandated in House Bills 224 and 225 and Senate Bill 314—while maintaining sustainable hunting and trapping opportunities for wolves. OHC recognizes that the Montana Legislature gave discretion to the Commission in developing a management plan. OHC asks the Commission to use that discretion to fulfill the intent of the Legislature by allowing the maximum harvest for a sustainable population of wolves; thereby reducing the impact of wolves on very important big game species and domestic livestock in all parts of the state of Montana. OHC would also emphasize that trapping, and more specifically the use of snares, is the most efficient tool for meeting the wolf population goals set forth by the Montana Legislature.

While supportive of the proposed management strategy, OHC also urges this commission to allow for the use of snares on public land in addition to private lands, and especially in Regions 1, 2, and 3 which have significant wolf populations. Also, and importantly, limiting the use of snares solely to private land greatly reduces the chances a trapper will enjoy the kind of results intended by the Montana legislature. The vast majority of the wolf population resides on public land. Limiting snaring to only private land will thereby undermine the Montana Legislature's goals. Snaring is the most efficient device for reducing the wolf population. By limiting the regions in which snaring may be utilized the commission is handcuffing the most useful tool available for fulfilling the wolf management plan.

Furthermore, limiting the expanded wolf trapping dates to areas outside the lynx protection zones is unnecessary. FWP has already adopted best practices for snares to avoid non-target captures of lynx. Compare 2020 Furbearer and Trapping, FWP Montana Trapping and Hunting Regulations at 5 with Howard Golden et al. How to Avoid Incidental Take of Lynx While Trapping or Hunting Bobcats and other Furbearers, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (2003). Current best practices, combined with the requirements laid out for wolf snares, will significantly reduce the chances of a lynx being taken incidentally. In fact, harvest data of furbearer species from states that utilize these best practices show almost no lynx mortalities associated to non-target catches. For example, Idaho has not reported a lynx death caused from a trap or snare. In addition, there is no data showing that wolf snares, which are constructed with larger cable and use larger loop sizes, have resulted in incidental captures of lynx—much less any lynx mortalities. During the three-year wolf harvest in Minnesota, before federal relisting, snares for wolves in the Minnesota lynx zone were allowed. During that period, no lynx were reported to have been incidentally caught. Thus, the requirement to limit locations for snaring is unnecessary.

In addition, OHC emphasizes the importance of education. The best way to reduce negative and unintended interactions with wildlife is by providing the public with robust educational programs and resources. In an era where we are connected more than ever, OHC would ask this commission to explore ways to reach more people who utilize Montana's fish, game, and natural resources. OHC strongly believes education will increase broad public acceptance of sustainable harvests, through hunting and trapping opportunities, as part of wolf conservation in Montana.

This is a very important issue to all sport persons, landowners, and the Montana public—as shown by the passage of laws intended to responsibly reduce the wolf population in Montana. OHC thanks you for your consideration of this important issue and looks forward to seeing the Commission implementing the intent of the Montana Legislature.

Good afternoon FWP Commission

Pat Tabor, Pat Byorth, KC Walsh, Lesley Robinson and Brian Cebull, my name is Justin Webb. I am the Executive Director for the Foundation for Wildlife Management. (Not to be confused with a Wildlife "Preservation" organization).

I'm writing today in hopes this email and attached Idaho Fish and Game Studies reach you prior to the end of the public comment period for implementation of the newly legislated wolf seasons. I have spent the last 11 years studying wolves and working with the Idaho Department of Fish and Game to maximize sportsmen ability to assist our department in managing wolf populations in areas where wolves are having detrimental impacts on Big Game species or Livestock producers... All the while attempting to minimize land user conflicts and protect sportsmen ability to trap wolves.

Recognizing that just across an imaginary Idaho/Montana State line, targeting many of the exact same wolf packs that Montana sportsmen target, Idaho hunter success rates are less than 1/4 of 1% while our trappers average north of 35% success... We have trapped and snared wolves from November 15th to March 31st for the past 10 years in Idaho Unit 1, where more wolves are trapped and snared than any other unit in the state... In this same 19000 square miles of land, (google earth image attached) we also house 91 documented grizzly bears or roughly 1 Grizzly in every 14.5 mile square. (Please find study attached). Within those same confines we also have more than 250 Lynx images recorded in another study (also attached for your review). The point I hope you take away from this being that in our highest density areas for both Grizzly Bear and Lynx, we have logged literally hundreds of thousands of Wolf Trap and Wolf Snare nights over the past 10 years, with ZERO conflict between Wolf trappers/Snares and Grizzly or Lynx... NOT ONE INCIDENT with 10 solid years of hard data recorded... Also having spoken to many professional wolf snare-men from Alaska and Canada, as well as having paid some of them to come provide education to Idaho trappers, these individuals will tell you the odds of catching Lynx in a properly set wolf snare are slim to zero at best. (Education is key when it comes to snare placement to avoid incidental catch, but lynx are not caught by wolf snares that are set properly. I do understand the verbiage of legislation requiring the use of snaring within the state of Montana may limit your ability to place requirements on that use, but I do strongly encourage you to require trapper education that includes an extensive snaring component for all trappers to be eligible to use snares. Snares are a very efficient and effective tool when used properly, they just require a bit more instruction on choosing set locations than foothold traps do).

My ask of the Commission is to please use the credible data, from Idaho, Canada, and Alaska that clearly show that wolf trapping and wolf snaring efforts do not jeopardize Grizzly or Lynx, and are not viable excuses to keep Montana Sportsmen from productively managing Montana Wolf populations.

Please remember the entire recovery goal for wolves in Montana, Idaho, and Wyoming Combined is 300... The science and data show us currently sitting at well over 3000 animals... If management is not based on the science and data gathered by the professionals each of our states have paid to gather said data, then what becomes the purpose of having State Game Management agencies? Just food for thought...

Thank you for what you do for the great State of Montana, the wildlife within it, and the passionate outdoor community who utilizes it.

Montana residents would like to see the new laws that were passed through legislation, utilized to the fullest extent as they were intended. Please implement the least restrictive wolf trapping regulation options available to allow for productive wolf management, especially within units 1, 2, & 3.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions.

Sincerely,

Justin Webb

Other wildlife will be in danger of undergoing the same fate as well, when will this horrendous massacre of our precious wildlife stop!!

Sadistic invaders can do anything they like to do to our sentient wildlife and their pups, it is horrendous! The emotional state of mind of all those who oppose this kind of cruelty has to be considered as well.

Please stop this brutality, stop hunting, trapping, snaring and all other killing plans! Wolves never recovered from these extermination plans in the past! They are needed badly to manage the environment to keep it healthy.
